Castro To Celebrate 7th Anniversary Of His Rebellion

HAVANA (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro's supporters headed for the remote mountains of eastern Cuba Saturday to celebrate in the cradle of the rebellion the anniversary of the movement that brought him to power.

At the same time delegations began arriving in Havana for the opening of a leftist-sponsored Latin America Youth Congress for the "liberation of all Latin America."

Castro is expected to utilize both forums for renewed attacks against the United States.

The opening session of the youth congress will be held in the all but inaccessible Oriente Mountains Tuesday to coincide with the national holiday marking Castro's revolt against the government of Fulgencio Batista on July 26 seven years ago.

It is certain the Prime Minister will lambast President Eisenhower and the U.S. government in his main speech to the nation. And with delegations from the Soviet Union, Red China and other Iron Curtain countries prominent among the early arrivals, the youth congress is expected to turn into demonstrations against Washington and U.S. supporters.

Cuban Roman Catholics who oppose mounting Communist influence in the Castro government changed signals on plans to show their displeasure. After two public demonstrations earlier this week resulted in arrests of Catholics, lay leaders decided to "go slow" in their public demonstrations.

As a result, any observance Tuesday as a "day of mourning" for the victims of Communist oppression will be on the basis of individual action and not as an organized movement as planned earlier by Catholic women.

Because of the remoteness of the region the turnout for the joint celebration is expected to fall far short of last year's gathering of rural and city workers in Havana.

Among the special guests for the joint celebration will be Communist Chinese Deputy Minister of Commerce Lu Shu Chiang, who is here with a trade delegation, Jacobo Arbenz, deposed president of Guatemala's Communist tinged government of 1954, and Jeronimo Remorino, foreign minister in the government of exiled Argentine dictator Juan D. Peron.

FBI Agent Posed As Photographer To Trap Red Spy

WASHINGTON (AP)—An undercover man working with the FBI and posing as photographer, successfully trapped Petr Y. Ezhov, accused Soviet Embassy spy.

Informed authorities who disclosed this Saturday said Ezhov was caught red-handed after months of painstaking surveillance.

Ezhov, 39, the embassy third secretary, has been ordered to leave the United States at once.

The FBI declined comment on the case of Ezhov, the 12th Soviet spy ordered out of the United States in the past 10 years.

Other sources said, however, that the undercover man posing as a free-lance photographer, was planted in Ezhov's path after it was learned Ezhov was seeking someone to make aerial photographs of East Coast cities.

The undercover man operated in such a way that Ezhov didn't know of the man's identity until the State Department cracked down and expelled the Russian.

To lure Ezhov on, carefully selected aerial shots of some cities and well-known Navy installations were turned over to him. These photographs were chosen to encourage Ezhov without revealing anything the Soviet Union did not already know.

The White House has 132 rooms.

Platform Workers Seek To Reconcile Dissident Elements

CHICAGO (AP) — Republican leaders worked Saturday to overcome widespread discontent among party conservatives over the liberal-tinged policy compromise reached by Vice President Richard M. Nixon and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Despite hot protests from such party figures as Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, it appeared the 14-point set of platform principles agreed upon by Nixon and Rockefeller are ticketed for approval by the GOP National Convention this week.

Reach Accord On Party Platform

CHICAGO (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller hammered his stamp on a party platform Saturday and then swooped down on the scene of a Republican National Convention ablaze at last with drama — a secret midnight rendezvous with sure-shot presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon.

For eight hours through the night, the New York governor and the vice president conferred in the seclusion of Rockefeller's New York City apartment. It was Nixon's idea, and Nixon went to Rockefeller.

Party unity and perhaps the November vote of mighty New York State were some of the stakes in this meeting of Republican giants.

Out of their session came a political compact to tilt the party platform toward the liberal side. Nixon and Rockefeller agreed on blending together basic aims and principles both can support when the GOP gets around to the voting stage at the convention which opens Monday.

Their understanding reached such key issues as national defense, foreign policy and civil rights.

The repercussions were quick, loud and broad:

—From the far right wing of the GOP, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona proclaimed bitterly that Nixon had surrendered to Rockefeller. He threatened a fight against some of the planks of the Nixon-Rockefeller program if they are hauled onto the convention floor. He left open a possibility of allowing his own name to be placed in nomination for the presidency as a gesture of protest.

The longer Goldwater thought things over, the hotter he got. He fired off a statement accusing Nixon of selling out to Rockefeller, of trying to "appease the Republican left." He said the New York entente was "immoral politics" and that if the agreement is unchallenged it will result in a Republican Munich and "defeat in November."

Various other conservatives and some of the convention delegates from Dixie cried out angrily against the platform agreement. Delegates from a dozen Southern states held a protest meeting. The platform subcommittee handling the civil rights plank balked at immediate acceptance of the Nixon-Rockefeller views.

—Rockefeller all but abandoned his wishful role of a man who would accept a draft for the party presidential nomination. Before winging out of New York for Chicago, the governor conceded that: "In terms of political realities, Nixon will be the candidate. The candidate doesn't matter. I'll support the nominee."

—With no apparent encouragement from either principal, several party leaders once again revved up their hopes for a Nixon-Rockefeller ticket.

Once more, Rockefeller said: "Absolutely, no." And at a Washington news conference, Nixon said he accepts this decision. He left the matter of a running mate suspended in midair.

—Some of the members of the convention Platform Committee said heatedly there will be no rubber stamping of the platform proposals of the vice president and governor. Others predicted the platform will hew closely to the pattern Nixon and Rockefeller want.

Nab Intruder Who Shoots Attorney, Kidnaps His Wife

GREAT NECK, N.Y. (AP)—An intruder shot an attorney in the face, kidnaped his pretty, 25-year-old wife from their luxurious Long Island home, and was captured Saturday after a chase hours later in Connecticut.

Connecticut State Police arrested Ruben Black, 30, a Negro of Hempstead, N.Y., at Wallingford, about 100 miles from here. Nancy Rothkrug, trembling but unharmed, was with him.

Mrs. Rothkrug said Black told her a crime syndicate hired him to kill her husband for $5,000, but police were quick to discount this. They said Black made a statement saying he was just trying to scare Mrs. Rothkrug by telling her that story.

Connecticut authorities said the motive was robbery in an effort to help "a sister — of Black's — in trouble in Hartford." Police found $350 in cash on Black.

Mrs. Rothkrug said she was downstairs in their Great Neck home when she heard a shot upstairs.

"My husband called out 'Nancy' and I went upstairs and saw him (the gunman). He discharged the gun again but it didn't go off. Then I saw my husband all covered with blood. The man motioned me in, and told me to tie my husband."

Mrs. Rothkrug said the gunman forced her into the Rothkrug car, promising to let her off at a hospital to get aid and saying she would be back in an hour. But she traveled with him all the way to Connecticut, where Black stopped in Hartford, locking her in the trunk while he bailed a relative out of jail.

Agencies Fighting Alcoholism Get State Grants

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—State grants totaling $235,450 to private and state agencies fighting alcoholism were announced Saturday by Gov. William G. Stratton.

Seven of the nine grants were made in Chicago where reside about 175,000 or 52 per cent of the state's 335,000 alcoholics.

The largest grant was $65,000 to the alcoholism unit at Peoria State Hospital. It is a nearly year-old project on the proper psychological approach to treating and rehabilitating selected alcoholic patients.

For program development in the Department of Public Welfare, $29,000 was set aside.

The Chicago Committee on Alcoholism and the Chicago Alcoholic Treatment Center each received $20,000. The same amount went to Harbor Light Center of the Salvation Army, which works with Skid Row alcoholics. In the same work, the Chicago Christian Industrial League of the United Presbyterian Church received $12,000.

Cathedral shelter of the Episcopal Church was given $3,000. St. Leonard's house of the same church received $9,450 for aid to alcoholic men just released from prison.

Grateful House, a transition shelter for alcoholic women, got $4,000.

Belgians Leave Leopoldville, U.N. Troops Continue To Arrive

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Troops from the Republic of Guinea, equipped with Soviet vehicles and Czech guns, arrived Saturday and joined other U. N. troops restoring order in this turbulent republic.

The first 60 troops from the former French colony were flown in by a U. S. Air Force Globemaster shortly before Belgian paratroopers completed their withdrawal from Leopoldville, the Congo capital.

At United Nations headquarters Saturday night, Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold announced that Belgian troops have completed the evacuation of Leopoldville.

The announcement said word of the complete withdrawal of the Belgains by 6 p.m. Saturday was received from Hammarskjold's personal representative in the Congo, Dr. Ralph J. Bunche. The troops have been moved to Belgian bases in Congo.

The U.N. said a nine-nation military force of 6,000 men is now on hand in the Congo and the total force will reach 12,140 within a week.

All day, trainloads of Belgian equipment and troops headed for the Belgian base at Kitona, west of Leopoldville, and automobile columns took more troops by road.

Bowing to U.N. pressure to withdraw from the Congo, the Belgians also agreed to get out of the strategic Port of Boma by Sunday, turning it over to Moroccan troops. At the mouth of the Congo, Boma controls upriver traffic to Leopoldville.

With Leopoldville now under effective U.N. control along with the major port of Matadi downriver, the Belgians were fast relinquishing their grasp on Leopoldville Province.

The Belgians, rulers of the Congo until independence June 30, have agreed to send technicians to both Boma and Matadi to repair port facilities, the U.N. Command said. The ports were badly damaged in fighting that erupted after Belgium sent in troops to check an antiwhite wave of terror by Negro soldiers.

The U.N. Command also made

Kennedy Gets Secret Data; Emphasis On Congo, Cuba

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) — Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic nominee for president, Saturday received from the Eisenhower administration a briefing on the world situation, with emphasis on two trouble spots — the Congo and Cuba.

Central Intelligence Agency chief Allen W. Dulles came by air to the Kennedy summer home to give the candidate secret information on foreign policy problems at the direction of President Eisenhower.

Kennedy said after their 2-hour, 15-minute session that he found the information very useful

"The United States is faced with a good many serious problems around the world," Kennedy said. "Mr. Dulles has discussed them with me in detail—particularly the situation in Africa."

He disclosed that the Congo and Cuba were two of the places specifically discussed.

When a reporter asked if Berlin also was mentioned, Kennedy replied: "There was a general discussion of all of these matters, sort of particularly the Congo."

Kennedy said they will meet for further briefing on foreign affairs after Congress reconvenes Aug. 8, and that in the meantime Dulles is to arrange for somebody from the Defense Department to come to Hyannis Port within the next two weeks for another briefing session.

The briefings were ordered by Eisenhower for the candidates for president and vice president of the two major parties for their guidance during the campaign.

Dulles said he hasn't yet made arrangements to talk to Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, who is Kennedy's running mate. Johnson is vacationing at Acapulco, Mex.

Dulles declined to expand on what Kennedy had said about their meeting.

Benson Picks Rockefeller As GOP Strongest Candidate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson said Saturday Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller would be the Republicans' strongest presidential candidate.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon, expected to head the GOP ticket, promptly told newsmen the Benson statement "does not come as any surprise."

Benson, in an unusual statement on the eve of the Chicago presidential nominating convention, said his wide travels throughout the nation convinced him the New York governor "would stand the best chances of defeating" Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic nominee.

Nixon, advised of the Benson statement, told a news conference:

"It is well known that the secretary and I have had some basic differences as to the kind of a farm program needed for the future."

Nixon said it would not be proper for him "to say categorically that I would be the strongest" candidate. But his tone indicated he does not agree with Benson that Rockefeller would be stronger.

Reached at his home, Benson was asked if his statement means he feels Nixon cannot defeat Kennedy. The secretary replied:

"No, I think he stands a very good chance of winning but I think the governor stands a better chance.

While expressing high personal regard for the Eisenhower agriculture secretary with whom he has worked more than seven years, Nixon said the nation needs "a new approach and new leadership to break through the stalemate" which has created huge farm surpluses.

TRUMAN MAY VISIT CAMP McCOY

CAMP McCOY, Wis. (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman has tentatively accepted an invitation to visit Camp McCoy next week. Col. Willie N. Thomas, camp commanding officer, said today.

Col. Thomas said Truman was invited by the 102nd Reserve Army Division, composed of men from Missouri and southern Illinois.

He added that the visit hinged on the condition of Truman's sister who has been ill.

Car Insurance Firm Cuts Rates

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP) — Some 400,000 State Farm Mutuel Automobile Insurance policyholders in Illinois are getting a cut in premium costs.

The company said today it is cutting more than $2,700,000 from its Illinois policyholders' annual insurance bill. Increased safety measures, especially in the Chicago area, have accounted for reduced accident costs, making the cuts possible, officials said.

The biggest rate cut will go to motorists whose cars have no single male driver under 25, who do not use their cars for business and who travel only short distances to work.

Some drivers, especially males under 25, will get rate increases, however. Premiums for bodily injury and property damage liability may be increased for some, but reductions in comprehensive collision costs may more than offset the hike.

Persons in the Chicago area with typical full coverage policies may expect a $5.80 to $15.20 rate decrease. Downstate motorists should save up to $7 on the typical policy.

State Farm's rate slash reverses the upward trend of the Chicago area, where insurance costs have risen some 30 per cent since 1955. East St. Louis rates have zoomed 38 per cent in the same span, while other Illinois rates have stayed even in some areas and have risen to 11 per cent in other areas.

State Farm Mutuel, which insures one of every eight passenger cars registered in Illinois, says it is the world's largest auto insurer with nearly six million policies in force.

YUGOSLAVIA SENDS MEN TO CONGO

New Population Center Of U.S. In South Illinois

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new population center of the United States is in Meridan Township in Clinton County, Ill., the census bureau said Saturday.

That's 47 miles west and 12¼ miles south of the old center near Louisville, Ill., which held the honor only briefly.

The 1950 Census actually placed the center in a cornfield near Olney, Ill., but when Alaska and Hawaii entered the union the census bureau did some re-figuring and shifted it to Louisville.

The bureau defines the population center as the point on which the United Sates would balance if it were a rigid plane and all the people on it had equal weight.

It's been moving steadily westward and is now 708 miles west and 45 miles south of the population center in 1790, which was 23 miles east of Baltimore near Chestertown, Md.

In 1810 it moved into Virginia, near Leesburg. It stayed in Virginia, which then included West Virginia, until 1860, when it moved into Ohio. By 1880 it had shifted to Covington, Ky., then for 60 years it was in Indiana. During World War II it crossed the Wabash River into Illinois.

The new center is about 50 miles east of St. Louis. The bureau said it is not precisely fixed yet as the population count for 1960 is still not final. But it will be somewhere in Meridan Township.

Sen. Thruston B. Morton of Kentucky, GOP National Committee chairman, predicted after a conference with Charles H. Percy, platform chairman, that "in general the platform will approach the points specified."

Morton said he'd never considered Nixon and Rockefeller too far apart anyway.

In Washington, Nixon said he and Rockefeller were in basic agreement on major policies.

But he indicated quite clearly that he and the New York governor still are apart in degree and method of dealing with certain key problems such as health care for the aged, labor strikes bearing on national security, and defense preparedness.

The Nixon-Rockefeller agreement appeared sure to steer the GOP away from many of the policies President Eisenhower has been following and closer to doctrines contained in the platform of the rival Democrats.

But there was much grumbling among conservatives over the far-ranging terms of the Nixon-Rockefeller policy pact reached at a secret eight-hour meeting in the governor's New York apartment.

Goldwater, a possible candidate for the GOP presidential nomination, said he would fight against letting the platform be dictated by Rockefeller.

"I am going to insist that the Platform Committee be allowed to use its prerogatives in selecting the type of platform the Republican party will stand on and not take dictation from the governor of New York," he added.

The Platform Committee went into an all-day huddle to revise tentative drafts of platform planks already worked out to incorporate

Expect GOP Labor Plank To Shock Party Conservatives

CHICAGO (AP) — Republican conservatives have another shock in store when the party's labor plank is unveiled, it was reliably reported Saturday.

As presently written — and the language is expected to stand up —it will contain a proposed revision of the government's rigid method of dealing with national emergency strikes.

It will specifically support the present right of employers and labor unions to negotiate agreements requiring workers to be union members.

It will endorse adding millions of workers to coverage of the minimum wage law and call for an unspecified boost in the present $1-an - hour minimum The Democratic platform calls for a boost to $1.25 an hour.

The GOP plank will pledge government aid to migratory farm workers and strengthening of labor standards laws.

After these highlights of the proposed labor plank were learned from other sources, a reporter asked Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell what he thought of it.

"It's a strong, decisive, prolabor platform, a realistic platform," Mitchell said.

"The people advocating tighter controls over labor—that is, putting unions under the antitrust and right-to-work laws—have been defeated."

Such proposals had been advocated by the National Assn. of Manufacturers and U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Mitchell played a key role in framing the GOP labor plank which contains positions he has advocated for some time.

The matter of revising national emergency strike procedures was a point covered in the policy agreement reached by Vice President Richard M. Nixon and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

Nixon and Rockefeller called for "improved procedures for the resolution of disputes endangering the national welfare." The present Taft-Hartley law prescribes a rigid set of procedures for the government to follow in such cases—ending with a court-ordered maximum 80-day cooling-off period to stop crucial walkouts.

That procedure was the one President Eisenhower followed in last year's record steel strike.

The idea of an arsenal of alternative methods would remove the certainty that a court injunction would be used. It would tend to increase bargaining pressure, particularly on management, to reach agreements before strikes developed.

ICC Allows Cut In Pike County Express Service

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)— The Illinois Commerce Commission today allowed three landowners to intervene in the case involving Northern Illinois Gas Co.'s application to construct a pilot gas storage reservoir in Iroquois county.

In their petition, the landowners said granting of the certificate could deprive them of their rights in the use and benefits of their property and could expose residents to hazards resulting from the storage of gas.

The proposed reservoir would be in Iroquois, Crescent and Danforth townships.

In other action, the commission:

Granted Northern Illinois Water Corp.'s motion to increase its water rates approximately 12 per cent in Champaign and Urbana. The cities of Champaign and Urbana and the University of Illinois had advised the ICC they would not oppose the increase.

Authorized Citizens Coach Co., Inc., to increase bus fares in Alton from 15 to 20 cents for adults and from 10 to 15 cents for children. Evidence presented at a hearing showed the company lost $20,555 in the first six months of this year.

Authorized United Motor Coach Co. to operate to and from the Greyhound depot at 74 W. Randolph street, Chicago instead of to and from Trailways passenger depot at 20 E. Randolph street.

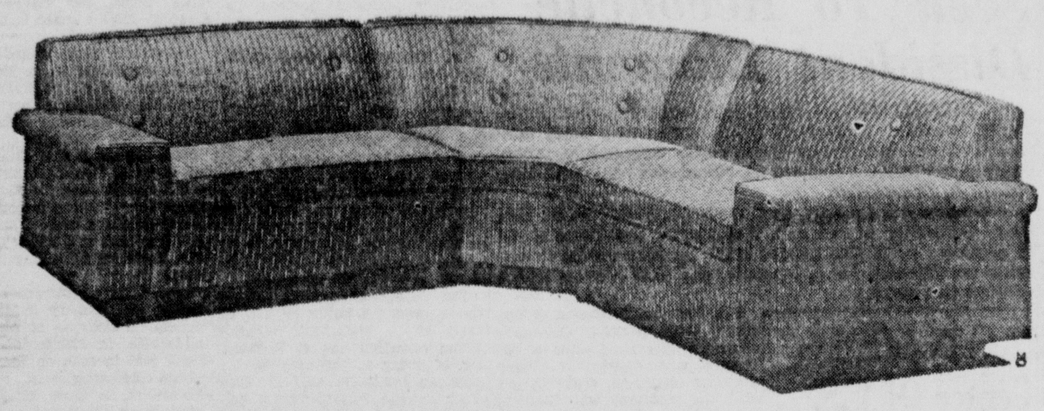

Authorized the Illinois Division of Highways to extend Federal aid Interstate Route 270 as a dual highway over Chicago and North

Buffalo Gnats Plague Stock In Jersey Co.

JERSEYVILLE—The old time buffalo gnats are appearing in swarms in some sections of Jersey county, farmers reported here Wednesday afternoon.

The inects are generally more in evidence in seasons of heavy rainfall which stimulates the growth of heavy pasture grasses where the insects apparently breed and exist.

The gnats are best known for their ability to annoy livestock and poultry. Farmers in the horse and buggy days often had their horses' heads and faces protected from the insects in seasons of many gnats. The gnat and fly bonnets were slipped over the horses ears on top of the bridles.

Farmers reporting here Wednesday afternoon stated that one might see a regular small cloud of gnats pestering cattle in the pasture or swine in their pens.

IT'S ALL ABOUT TWO GETHERNESS!

SOMETHING SPECIAL HAS HAPPENED TO JACKSONVILLE

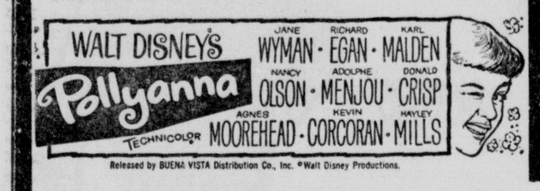

More than 100 of Your Neighbors had a lift one wonderful morning last week when they attended an invitational performance of a new motion picture.

THEY forgot the headlines of the day, their bills, their pills, and the tensions of the times as soon as they met a luminous young lady named Pollyanna.

They also met her friends on both sides of the tracks. They shared the secrets of a backstairs romance — made a rainbow on the wall — danced amid the fireworks at a fair . . . And recalled a rare feeling that is simply known as happiness.

Our guests' spontaneous and enthusiastic applause clearly established that this was the brightest of all of Walt Disney's many joyous pictures. It reaffirms the upbeat philosophy that is basic to Americans regardless of the few who pooh-pooh it. It is fun and a positive delight.

If you could ask last week's guests about POLLYANNA, we are confident they would say, "This one is something special. You'll be glad you saw it!"

Money? Who Needs It— If You Have Credit Card

Editor's Note — Millions of honest Americans, and a few rare thieves, have discovered money isn't nearly as important as folks once thought. In the dawning day of the credit card economy, you don't need a thick wad of greenbacks to impress a headwaiter. All it takes is a tiny, magic card and a willingness to sign, and sign, and sign.

By HUGH MULLIGAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

"Oh, the debtor is but a shame-faced dog
With his creditor's name on his collar
While I am king and you are queen
For we owe no man a dollar."

This old copybook maxim, so dear to the hearts of McGuffey's pay-now-study-later readers, seems strangely out of date in the modern painless credit world of Diners' Club, American Express, Carte Blanche and other entrepreneurs of on the cuff living.

Today it's the debtor who's king, and he proudly carries his creditor's name, not on his collar, but in the plastic viewer compartments of his wallet, side by side with the family pictures, his driver's license and similar symbols of law abiding respectability.

At the flash of his credit card, head waiters bare their dentures in a smile of all sweet accord, department stores treat him like a visiting shah, travel agents book him on an African safari or a round-the-world cruise, mail order houses ply him with offers of live Maine lobsters by the peck ($30.35) and 58 prime steaks direct from the Chicago stockyards ($99.50). Even the FBI has paid homage to his apparently inexhaustible potential with the creation of a whole new criminal category: "Most wanted credit card thief."

For the estimated 15 million Americans holding various type credit cards, money—cold hard cash—has become a trifle vulgar, unsanitary (germs, you know) and increasingly obsolescent. They are beginning to look upon cash as a nuisance that one must put up with in order to pay cab drivers and feed cigarette machines, but that one never resorts to in any of the best places.

Credit cards, on the other hand, connote status, prestige, convenience, evidence if not proof for the Internal Revenue Service and an abiding faith in the holder's ability to pay all within 30 days. Recalcitrant members can and have been stripped of their status symbols and put on a black list for failing to meet the deadline.

Diners' Club, oldest and largest in the field, now claims 1,100,000 members, some 40,000 cooperating establishments here and abroad, and will do close to 200 million dollars worth of billing in 1960.

American Express Credit Card, only two years old, has more than 750,000 members, some 35,000 outlets and has finally broken into the black after a shaky start.

Hilton Hotels Carte Blanche, after blanketing in about a million free holders of its old hotel card will probably wind up with 300,000 paying customers for its all purpose card.

These are the big three in the credit card field, and they operate pretty much the same. Card holders pay $6 a year for the privilege of paying most of their tabs in a lump sum every month. Restaurants and nightclubs pay a 5 to 7 per cent discount on credit card tabs, hotels 3 to 5 per cent, and department stores, specialty shops and most other outlets a straight 10 per cent, in return for which the credit systen take over bill collections and assume the risk of deadbeats.

Rev. Chasteen To Begin Fifth Year In Greene

WHITE HALL—Rev. Harry Chasteen, pastor of the First Baptist Church, began his fifth year Sunday, July 24. In the four years in which he has served the church a new Christian education building, costing about forty thousand dollars, has been erected. The present indebtedness on the new building is about twelve thousand dollars.

About 175 new members have been added to the church membership in these years, and the weekly average attendance is 300 in the Sunday school with the church ministering on the average to over 500 persons weekly in the Sunday school and worship services.

During the winter months, four choirs alternate in providing music during the worship services. During the past two years a new mission circle has been formed. It meets monthly for the study period and program planning. A girls' guild meets during the school year.

The pastor has served locally for two years as president of the Ministerial Alliance, and at present time is moderator of the West Central Association of American Baptist Churches. He is a member of the Board of the Illinois State Baptist Convention, and at present is serving as a member of the program committee of the ministers' council of the state. She is assistant editor of The Beacon, the church paper which is sent out monthly to four hundred homes. She has served as pianist, Sunday school teacher and supervisor over the junior and primary choirs in the local church.

Members and friends are urged to attend the worship service at 10:40 a.m. on Sunday and at 7:30 in the evening, marking the pastor's anniversary. Topic of the morning sermon will be "Dynamics of True Christian Living."

GOOD THINGS COME IN SMALL PACKAGES

Frequently people exclaim, "These pills are so small that I can't understand how they can do any good!" Few realize how potent modern drugs are or how little is needed to produce a significant effect. You know how small an ounce is and one gram is only 1/28th of an ounce. Most drug dosages are measured in milligrams or 1/1000 of a gram and many newer compounds are measured in micrograms or millionths of a gram. Base your judgment of a drug on benefits you receive, not on size or cost.

With The Girl Scouts

Seventy Brownies, Intermediate Girl Scouts, leaders and troop mothers of the St. John's School, Carrollton, made the trip to Affton, Mo., on Wednesday, July 6, to tour Grant's Farm. Mrs. Lawrence Thien reports the outing as follows: "We left Carrollton on the bus at 5:30 a.m. The tour began at 9 o'clock. We boarded the train which took us on the tour with much enthusiasm, since some of the children had never been on a train before. The tour laster one and a half hours. We had a guide and a loud speaking system to explain all points of interest. The animals were very interesting. The log cabin and covered wagons used by General Grant caught the eyes of everyone, also the large fountain in the center of square. Everyone threw coins into the fountain. The large square is covered with wood-like bricks."

"A large seven-acre lake was just beautiful with birds of all species around. A shelter in the center of the lake for the birds was so different than anything we have ever seen. After the tour refreshments were served and we left by bus for the zoo. We had all taken sack lunches so we ate in the picnic area. After lunch we went through the monkey house, snake house and bird house. The girls bought a few souvenirs from a concession stand. Then we left to go to the airport."

"Visiting the airport was an activity everyone enjoyed. We watched the planes leave and land. Through the courtesy of Mrs. Vinvent Moulton and a friend she knew at the airport we were admitted to the crash house and given instructions on how they fought fire if a plane crashed at the airport. Each one was taken through the large emergency trucks and was told how to operate them. They showed us the two-way speaking system from truck to the tower, also, how each one was guided to his destination by radio or two-way speaker. They also turned on the water and shot it out of the large hoses on the trucks. We watched the jet planes land and it was explained to the children why the parachute was opened on the rear of the plane when it landed. We also watched jets take off and the large commercial and transport planes were very interesting. The leaders were taken up in the tower. We climbed a circular stairway to the top. We were shown all the instruments used in guiding the planes on the ground and in the air, also weather readings. We watched them operate all these machines. Each place we went we had an instructor for the group who explained all to us."

"After refreshments at the airport we left for Carrollton. We arrived at 5:30 p.m. All who had made the tour said it was the most enjoyable and interesting we have taken. The leaders and troop mothers who went on the tour were Mrs. Bud Roth, Mrs. Rosemary Hardaway, Mrs. Elizabeth Fields, Mrs. Emily Kane, Mrs. Edna Pranger, Mrs. Henrietta Hartman, Mrs. Rosemary Grueter, Mrs. Dorothy Godar, Mrs. Helen Tapen, Mrs. Lawrence Thien, Mrs. Joan Moulton, and Mrs. Jean Wagenblast."

Troop Campouts

Campouts are planned by two troops for this week. Intermediate, Junior-high Troop 63 will spend the entire weekend at the Girl Scout Cabin on Lake Jacksonville. No tents will be used and the girls will sleep out on bedrolls or in cots under the stars. Simple, wholesome outdoor food is planned and a rewarding weekend is looked forward to by the girls and their leaders, Mrs. Howard Choate and Mrs. Fay Daniel.

Senior Troop 13, under the leadership of Mrs Robert Hemphill, is planning a four-day trip to Siloam Springs State Park. These Scouts will be in the sophomore class in Jacksonville High School this fall, and are working toward greater outdoor efficiency and the completion of the outdoor requirements in the 5-point program of Senior Scouting.

New Senior Troop

Two of our delegates to the Senior Scout Roundup in Colorado Springs, Colo., last summer are giving freely of their time to Scouting and have given many illustrated talks throughout our Council during the past year. On Monday, July 25, Virginia Gronseth and Gail Ward will talk with mothers and Scouts in Winchester about the Senior Scout program. They will show slides of their experiences at the Roundup and explain the new fields opened up by participation in Senior Scouting. Mrs. Margaret Willsey, leader of Troop No. 30, has asked the mothers and 14 Scouts to the high school for this get-together, and has indicated that she would like to continue as leader for these girls, who will be freshmen in Winchester High school this fall, and who, therefore, will be eligible to become Senior Scouts and will form our third Senior Scout troop.

Special recognition goes to Troop No. 9, Intermediates of Washington school, under the leadership of Mrs. Philip Bradish, who have continued to meet each week this summer. They like each other and their leader so well that the pleasant habit of weekly meetings governed their summer activities. Congratulations, Troop No. 9! That's the kind of scouting we're proud of.

Janice Bradish, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Bradish, Jacksonville, and Barbara Hamm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hamm, members of Troop No. 9, attended Camp Virginia Anderson, an established Girl Scout camp at Decatur, the last week in June. Cindy Newcomb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Newcomb, and a member of Troop No. 46, Lincoln school, will be a camper at Camp Virginia Anderson for the week of July 24-31.

The Girl Scout office is open mornings, 9-1, until August 15, when we resume full-time schedule.

Christian Church Youth Make Tour Of St. Louis

A chartered bus provided transportation for 39 young people and their leaders of Central Christian church Chi Rho department for an educational tour of two of the large business concerns of the church, located in St. Louis. The trip was taken Thursday, July 21.

The morning was spent at the Christian Board of Publications and the Bethany Press. The group viewed the processing for publishing church papers, magazines and books. They followed the procedure from setting of type, to printing, folding and binding of the finished product, all by use of machinery.

Later in the morning they visited the Book Shop where each selected books for the church library. Each member of Chi Rho has a goal to read six books as part of their program.

Lunch hour and recreation was spent at Forest Park. The afternoon included visiting the St. Louis Children's Home, part of the National Benevolent Association Work of the Christian churches. After returning to this city in the evening ice cream and cake, at the social sponsored by parents at the church, was served to the group.

Making the trip were Judy Akers, Linda Antrobus, Melvin Black, Charles Boston, Sally Crawford, Mary Evans, Michael Cook, Jane and Jean Hadden, Tom Garrett.

Alvahlee McCarthy Visits South American Countries

Mrs. Alvahlee S. McCarthy, Jacksville's travel mined teacher has just returned from a trip around South America. The equivalent of twenty-three to twenty-five thousand miles, plus many more miles by other means of travel.

Since this was a second visit to Venezuela the new look was quite evident in Maracaibo and Caracas especially the new mountain highway from the airport into the city at Caracas.

In Brazil the stops were Rio de Janiero, Sao Paulo, Santos and a special trip to see the new capitol city of Brazilia, where on sees the blue prints turning into a new modern city.

Then followed a most delightful day with the Gauchos out side the beautiful city of Montevideo in Uruguay. The journey from Montevideo to Buenos Aires, made by Flying Boat, proved most interesting. A day in the country in Argentina at an Estancion provided a glimpse of rural luxury as well as a regular meal that cowboys enjoy daily. Folklore songs and dances performed by costumed entertainers were enjoyed.

After a high flight over the Andes to Santiago, Chile exploration of the west coast cities and country began. Valpariso and Vina del Mar, both beautiful coastal cities, make a day well spent as a trip out of Santiago. City of Silver is the name sometimes given to Lima, Peru since such exquisite silver work is waiting there for the North American tourist. However a student of history can't miss the side trip of three or four days to Cusco, Machu Picchu and Pisac. This was the heart and heighth of the Inca Indian culture, hundreds of years before Columbus dreamed of sailing west.

The area at Machu Picchu still remains so well preserved that the ruins look liveable yet. Guayaquil and Quito were Equadorian cities visited and especially the Equatorial Monument where one stands with one foot in the southern and the other in the northern hemispheres. Cali, Colombia is famed for orchids but proved to be a shutter-bug'c paradise for many kinds of flowers and trees. Last stop before Miami—Panama City, Balboa and the Canal Zone where the smiles and cheery Hello's of service men on duty made travelers feel at home.

While in Santiago on July 4, Mrs. McCarthy's party was invited to the home of the U.S. Ambassador for an Independence Day party.

In Lima, Peru a Party was given in her honor by the Lima chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sosority which proved a chance for a real understanding of Peruvian customs and ways. These young women especially pleaded that U.S. not stop the good work for the hopelessly strickened earthquake area of Chile. This sorority chapter as well as the Ladies division of Chamber of Commerce and other organizations are working but the need is far greater than they can supply. Since it is now their winter season heavy clothing is badly needed. U.S. Service men staying at the hotels overnight while on missions of delivering supplies also added to the stories of the great need.

Although progress in many parts of South America is a hundred years behind North America it behooves us to think strongly of the Monroe Doctrine for here is a continent with mineral resources yet untapped.

15 YEARS OF ATOMIC PROGRESS

From the first atomic bomb to today's nuclear rocket program

LOS ALAMOS, NEW MEXICO,——The Laboratory that ushered in the atomic age with the first man-made nuclear explosion 15 years ago this summer, is now moving steadily toward the conquest of space by nuclear rocket propulsion.

Almost exactly on the 15th anniversary of Trinity, when Los Alamos scientists detonated the first atomic bomb in southern New Mexico on July 16, 1945, some of the same men will conduct two nuclear rocket propulsion reactor experiments at the AEC's Nevada Test Station.

These scientists and engineers from Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory make up the world's most experienced team of experts in the art of handling explosive nuclear reactions. While there is a vast difference between an atomic bomb and a reactor, the devices being tested this summer may well be considered more like "slow" bombs than fast reactors, since they produce in seconds the energy an ordinary nuclear power reactor would put out in days.

Their total energy release is only a fraction of that exerted by an atomic bomb, but directed as thrust it is potentially many times that of chemically-fueled rockets. Nuclear rocket engines are intended to take up where chemical rocket motors stop—in deep space. Many scientists believe that inter-planetary travel will be possible only with nuclear rockets.

The Los Alamos propulsion reactors are called Kiwis, after the flightless New Zealand bird, because they can't fly. In fact, they are mounted upside down to keep them from taking off inadvertently. They are not yet even prototypes of a rocket motor. But one day, perhaps five or ten years hence, it is more likely that one of this strange breed of atomic "birds" will be mounted right side up to become the first Rover engine, designed to fly.

Rover is the name of the project under which the nation's nuclear rocket propulsion program is being conducted jointly by the National Aeronautics and Space Agency and the Atomic Energy Commission. Its principal work is being carried on by Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory, operated for the AEC by the University of California.

But Trinity and Rover are separated by more than 15 years of history and a thousand miles of distance. In between lies almost the entire span of man's mastery of the atom, the evolution of a limitless future for peaceful uses of nuclear energy. Los Alamos has contributed much to that history. Here are some of its accomplishments in the past decade and a half:

The world's first nuclear and thermonuclear weapons.

The world's first homogeneous reactor and first "fast" reactor.

The world's first camera operating at 15 million frames per second.

Development of remote control critical assembly systems.

Development of whole body radiation counters.

In adding the Rover project to this list, much more will be added to the sum total of human knowledge. Much has yet to be discovered about the behavior of materials under the extremes of pressure, temperature and radiation the Kiwi reactors produce. The electronic control systems are marvels of ingenuity, involving remote, automatic mechanisms directed by computers, with multiple safeguards against runaway reactions. Almost everything that has been learned since Trinity will help in one way or another in the huge task of converting nuclear fission energy to nuclear rocket thrust.

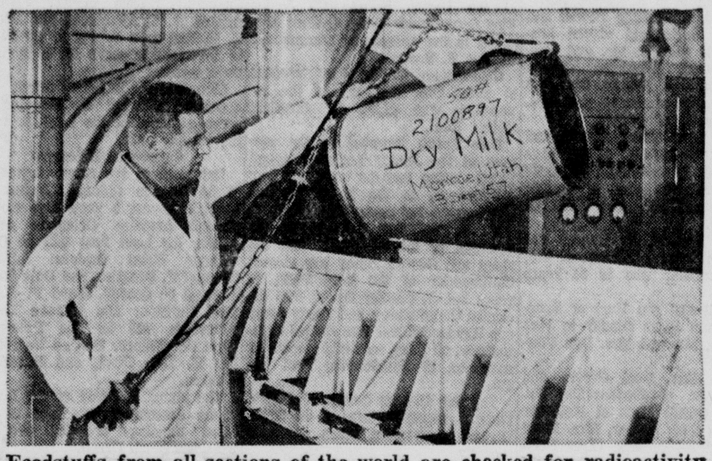

What Los Alamos will be doing on the 30th anniversary of Trinity, another 15 years hence, is almost a matter for science fiction speculation, except that fiction is hard put to keep up with science these days. The shape of the world in 1975 is perhaps beyond man's ability to conjecture, but it is probably safe to assume that Los Alamos will play a major role in the shaping.

Trinity fireball, 15 seconds after detonation by Los Alamos scientists of the first nuclear bomb on July 16, 1945, rises into the air above the desert near the town of Alamogordo, New Mexico. The explosion had an approximate yield of 20 kilotons (20,000 tons) of TNT and heralded the birth of the atomic age.

Scylla G., a Los Alamos device used for controlled fusion research, produced the first known thermonuclear reaction on a laboratory scale. Temperatures attained with Scylla, for a period of about a microsecond, exceed 10,000,000 degrees Centigrade.

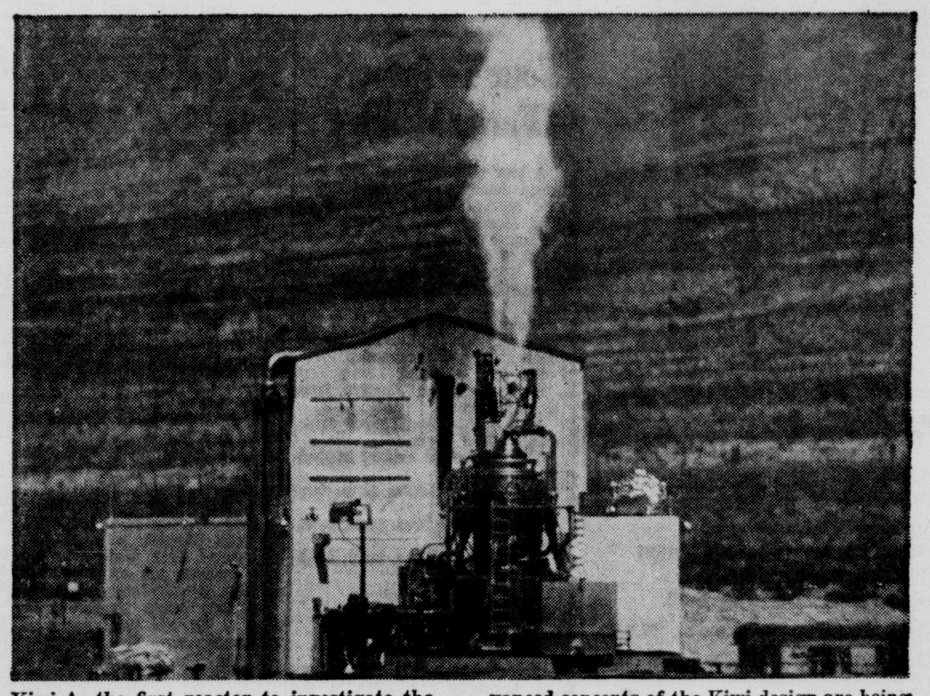

Foodstuffs from all sections of the world are checked for radioactivity at the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory which maintains an extensive monitoring system on fallout. The detection apparatus is also sensitive enough to trace minute amounts of natural radioactivity in human subjects.

The world's first homogeneous (liquid fuel) atomic reactor, known as the Water Boiler, was built at Los Alamos during World War II and is still in use as a research tool. The basic design of this reactor has been used in a number of other reactors in the United States and abroad.

Control room at Nevada Test Site for conducting nuclear rocket propulsion experiments operates under the direction of the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory. During reactor power runs, nearly 600 signals are fed into the room from the test cell located two miles away. Present goal of experimenters is to operate at temperatures up to 5400 degrees. Barring unforeseen complications, LASL scientists hope to develop a flyable prototype engine by 1965.

Kiwi-A, the first reactor to investigate the feasibility of nuclear rocket propulsion, was successfully operated on July 1, 1959. Advanced concepts of the Kiwi design are being tested this summer by Los Alamos scientists in Nevada.

GLOWS IN DARK

Jersey Man Sights Strange Object In Sky

JERSEYVILLE — Mysterious objects in the night sky have not been viewed by residents of other localities alone, for reports have been received here of observations of similar unexplained objects.

The mysterious creation in this locality has been described as a cigar shaped thing that glows in the night sky. There are apparently no special visible lights on any part of the object, but its entire body glows with a greenish luminosity like some gigantic glow worm.

Among those in the southern Jersey county are who saw the object is Donald Terry, well known resident of the Otterville vicinity. Terry was returning to his home in Otter Creek Township the past week after attending a meeting of the officials of the Jersey Community School District Number 100 when he first saw the strange space traveler.

"I was about two miles south of Jerseyville, "Terry stated" when I first saw a cigar shape body in the air to the south and east. It was lighter with a greenish color glow that covered the entire structure. In other words there were no lights apart from the main body of the creation.

"I watched it and saw it dip out of sight below the horizon. In continued on my way, and when I had proceeded for fully another mile, the creature suddenly reappeared and seemed to be headed with its nose straight up."

ADVERTISE—IT PAYS

As I See It

by E. W. BROWN

The world is full of practical jokers, and nobody knows it better than the U. S. Post Office Department. Every year, postal workers get hundreds of "nixies," letters with deliberate puzzles for addresses. One postman, for instance, had to deliver a letter addressed only to "Embrace the Pharmacist." He though a minute, then delivered it correctly to a Mr. Hugg, the local druggist. Another mail carrier, handed a letter addressed to "C2H50H," promptly delivered it to a grocer named Alkie Hall, the above symbols being the chemical formula for "alcohol." But the topper of all was a letter to a store in Gulfport, Miss., by someone who apparently didn't know the address. It was marked: "Downtown Furniture Store Run By Two Brothers Who Look Alike, Across Street From Dime Store, Appliance Store At One End of Street, Dry Goods Storet At Other."

When a young lady presented a check, the London bank teller asked, "Can you identify yourself?" The girl looked puzzled, pulled out a mirror, looked in it and smiled, "Yes, it's me all right." One look at our fine selection of late model used cars will show you what we mean by "good clean used cars." Each car has been gone over by top mechanics to assure you of a safe, dependable automobile. And because of volume new car sales, we can now price them below their true values. See them soon. E. W. State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Company is cutting over $2,750,000 from its Illinois policyholdres' annual auto insurance bill through a new driver classification plan.

Hudson L. Thompson and Don Hazelrigg, local agents for State Farm, said most of the firm's 400,000 policyholders in Illinois will qualify for rate reductions.

They cited increased traffic safety measures in the state as contributing to the reduced accident costs which have made the rate cut possible.

Savings will vary, they said, depending upon how individual drivers fit into the new driver classification plan being introduced here by State Farm. Biggest rate cuts will go to motorists whose cars have no single male drivers under 25, who don't use their cars for business and who don't drive far to work.

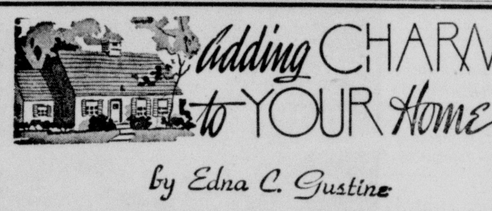

Although some drivers—particularly single males under 25—will get rate increases under the plan, the net effect will be an estimated $2,750,800 reduction in State Farm's annual premium income from its present policyholders in Illinois. Statewide, the decreases average 6.8 percent.

Thompson and Hazelrigg said additional savings for many two-car families may result from pyramiding of second car and compact car discounts. Formerly either of the discounts, but not both, was allowed.

Some policyholders will pay more for bodily injury and property damage liability coverages, but reductions in comprehensive and collision coverage costs may more than offset this allowing an overall reduction in their premium. But even with full coverage policies, some policyholders who drive long distances to work will be faced with a slightly higher total premium.

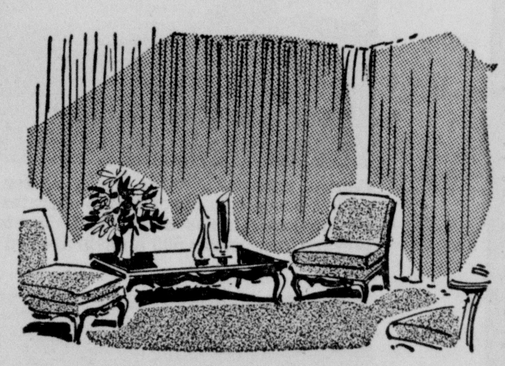

State Farm Mutual, which estimates it insures nearly one out of eight (12.4 percent) of the passenger cars registered in Illinois, is the world's largest auto insurer with nearly 6,000,000 policies in force. Home office and the midwest regional office which serves Illinois policyholders are in Bloomington.

Adding CHARM to YOUR Home

by Edna C. Gustine

NEW STANDARD OF COMFORT

All things considered, a pleasing furniture arrangement can add more beauty, more comfort and convenience to a room than almost any other factor. Good grouping and the carefully planned arrangement of groupings not only enhance the individual pieces functionally as well as appearance-wise, but also bring out the room's best architectural points. The ideal, of course, is to have the furniture groupings and the room blend so harmoniously that they appear to have been made for each other.

To create good furniture arrangements requires planning in advance: Right at the start it is well to make a thoughtful study of the room. This will enable you to determine which good points you'll want to emphasize, and reveal the bad structural features that should be minimized or overcome.

Low-scaled, medium weight furniture was selected for the living room sketched above to conform with the size of the room, to make the low ceiling appear to be higher, and also to play up the beauty of the wall-wide window which is the room's most distinguishing feature.

In selecting the furniture we offer you, we have kept "relationship" in mind without sacrificing "individuality" — so that your furniture groupings will have style and originality. Come in today, let us help you choose the pieces that will make the most satisfactory groupings for your home.

CHICAGO (AP)—A sharply reduced butcher hog supply this week was a strengthing market factor and prices of barrows and gilts advanced 50 cents to $1 a hundredweight.

Twice, on Thursday and Friday, the market topped at $19, the highest in more than 18 months as offerings dropped to 26,000 head, down 7,000 from last week's total.

Slaughter steer prices were as much as $1 lower although the supply dropped about 20 per cent from the previous week. Buyers said a slow demand and further price declines for carcass beef in wholesale markets were the weakening trade factors.

They said prime grade beef at Eastern wholesale markets was unusually slow.

Demand in the sheep market was good for choice and prime grade spring slaughter lambs which sold steady to strong but lower grades moved slowly at prices 50 cents to $1 lower.

ALL GRAINS EXCEPT WHEAT MAKE GAINS

CHICAGO (AP) — Steady but mostly moderate hedge selling kept wheat futures on the defensive most of this week and prices of that grain were the only losers on the Board of Trade.

Setbacks were held to a one cent range, however, as mill buying, flurries of short covering and some export business absorbed most of the offerings fairly readily.

Soybeans, with three successive days of rather broad gains, posted the sharpest advances and twice were boosted to new highs for the season on all new crop contracts. Gains there ranged up to more than four cents on the March delivery.

The grains generally were limited to major fractional advances. Brokers said that while there was no particularly strong drive, the market maintained a firm tone largely because offerings were relatively scarce.

At the end of the week, wheat was ⅝-1 cent a bushel lower than a week ago, September $1.83¾-⅞; corn ⅜-¾ higher, September $1.16⅛; oats unchanged to ⅛ higher, September 69¾-¼; rye unchanged to 1⅛ higher, September $1.17¾; soybeans 2-4¼ cents higher, September $2.15¼-14¼.

New York Stock Market

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market sagged again this week as the international situation continued tense and the parade of second quarter earnings reports was increasingly spotty.

The sharp drop in steel production this year was reflected in drastically reduced earnings for many steel companies and related firms. In addition, the squeeze on corporate profits was demonstrated by several companies which reported lower income despite higher sales.

Du Pont was a conspicuous example of the profits squeeze and the stock reacted by breaking down below the 200 level to 190 with a net loss of 11¾ points.

Sharp declines by Du Pont and a number of other blue chips accounted for a steep fall in the popular market averages, even though most stocks did not fare too badly and volume was comparatively light by 1960 standards.

The harsh exchange of words between the Soviet Union and the United States created a nervous and unsettled atmosphere in Wall Street. This was complemented by the unsatisfactory financial reports of many corporations. Further gloom was spread by reports of bulging inventories in household appliances and a softening of prices.

The Dow Jones industrial average declined for the tenth straight session as the week ended. It fell 20.37 to 609.87.

Volume remained subnormal for 1960, totaling 12,577,480 shares compared with 12,996,536 the prior week.

Of 1,413 issues traded, 863 declined and 392 advanced. New highs for the year totaled 74 and new lows 196.

Most active issue on the New York Stock Exchange was Standard Oil (New Jersey), off ⅛ at 40⅛ on 200,900 shares.

Most active issue on the American Stock Exchange was New Haven Clock, up ⅛ at 2 on 209,700 shares.

Bond prices gained ground this week but the steady two-week climb of the Treasury market ended Friday. Volume touched a 2½-year low for a nonholiday week.

After trading at the highest prices since December 1958 for four days, most government bonds fell ⅛ to ¼ point Friday. For the week they were still ahead a maximum of ½ a point.

Volume tumbled to $22,490,000 par value on the New York Stock Exchange—the lowest since the week of March 28, 1958. Last week's total was $23,543,000.

Dan Vititoe, pastor of the Baptist church at Barrow, entered Boyd Memorial Hospital Friday morning for treatment of facial injuries which he received at 8 a.m. Friday when he lost control of the car which he was driving and it overturned on route 67 south of Greenfield. BELGIAN FORCES QUIT LEOPOLDVILLE its first move to take effective control of Kasai Province, which adjoins Leopoldville Province on the east. An advance brigade of Tunisian troops was sent to Luluabourg, Kasai capital and scene of violent disorders earlier this month.

But the difficulty U.N. forces face in trying to restore order in the outlying provinces was pointed up by the attempt of rebellious Congolese soldiers to detain Andre Tshibangu, the Congo's finance minister, at Stanleyville, Oriental Province capital.

Tshibangu and a U.N. official flew to that northeastern city to pick up 400 million Congo francs—eight million dollars—from government vaults to replenish the depleted treasury.

Capt. Michael D. McCallum, Canadian pilot of their plane, said Ethiopian troops of the U.N. force seemed to be in command of the Stanleyville Airport. But Congolese troops appeared, beat up Tshibangu and later tried to keep him from leaving with the money.

U.N. officers obtained his release.

Stanleyville is a stronghold of Premier Patrice Lumumba, who often has talked of moving the Congo's capital there.

On his current flying visit to the United Nations, Lumumba is certain to bring up the case of Katanga Province, which has proclaimed its independence, called in Belgian troops to preserve order, and has threatened to fight if U.N. troops try to enter.

A U.N. spokesman said that for the present, no attempt will be made to send U.N. forces into Katanga because there are other problems that must be faced first.

NIXON, ROCKEFELLER CONFER ALL NIGHT, REACH AGREEMENT

But the political facts of life are such that the platform the convention finally adopts next week hardly could be one on which Nixon would hesitate to stand or which Rockefeller would refuse to support.

The terms on which Rockefeller and Nixon agreed definitely are as much the governor's as those of the vice rpesident — perhaps more so.

But there were disclaimers of any deals or sell-out or capitulations.

Nixon said that on basic principles they held before their New York meeting there was no yielding or compromise on either side.

He didn't buy Rockefeller's proposal for a quick splurge of an extra 3½ billions on defense, so their agreement skirted a specific figure. The vice president said he would have to examine "the whole complex of our defense requests and requirements" before he could answer a question as to how much of an increase he would favor.

He said Rockefeller approves and he opposes the granting to the president of power to impose compulsory arbitration when a strike threatens national security.

On the question of medical and health insurance for older people, Nixon said both he and Rockefeller believe the program should require financial contributions from those who benefit and that it should not compel anyone to participate against his will. But, he said, he wants to finance the program through general tax funds whereas Rockefeller wants to employ the Social Security financing system.

The 103-member Platform Committee called a special night session to look over the terms of the Nixon-Rockefeller understandings and try to figure out how or whether to work them into platform language.

Whatever the agreement or whatever the results of it may be, the secret huddle of the two figures who have dominated preconvention maneuvering gave a bit of zip and zest to preliminaries which had failed to strike a single spark of surprise or excitement.

It still will be a convention which was pretty much cut to a pattern ahead of time.

Nixon had far more than the 666 votes needed to clinch the presidential nomination long before the Republican legions began assembling here.

But the word throughout the day was that Nixon didn't offer Rockefeller a place by his side and that the governor positively wasn't interested in receiving such a bid.

At a news conference of his own at his convention headquarters, Rockefeller repeated that "definitely not under any circumstances" would he accept the vice-presidential mantle—even if President Eisenhower asked him to.

Nixon and Rockefeller had a second conference Saturday—over the long distance line between Washington and Chicago. Rockefeller said they talked about the platform again and that they are "in complete accord" on it.

The story that it was the vice president who set up the earlier face-to-face conference in New York came first from Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's press secretary here in the Windy City, then from Nixon and Rockefeller in turn.

It went like this: The vice president telephoned the governor early Friday afternoon. That was after the governor, through an aide here, had blasted at proposed platform planks on defense, foreign policy and civil rights as "seriously lacking in strength and specifics."

Nixon said he wanted to "set the record straight" on what he termed exaggerated differences between himself and Rockefeller.

So he caught a plane to New York and had dinner alone with Rockefeller at the latter's residence in mid-Manhattan.

The meeting and the agreement itself had puzzling aspects.

Did this new meeting of party leaders represent a surrender in any measure? To what degree did on to get away from policies of the Eisenhower administration?

Why did the vice president of the United States fly to the side of a governor when position and protocol would have seemed to decree that Rockefeller go to Nixon?

No pat answers were forthcoming to such questions as these.

But a matter of practical politics was involved deeply. New York's bundle of 45 electoral college votes is the biggest in the nation. Obviously Nixon would want Rockefeller's help in herding them into the Republican column in November—from a state where the governor has proved his ability to outrun his party.

In some areas, the Nixon-Rockefeller pact does veer away from the program and policies of the present administration and approach positions the Democrats took in their own platform in Los Angeles last week.

For one thing, the agreement says the United States can afford and must provide increased funds to carry out an expanded program of defense in the face of "warning signs of Soviet aggressiveness." On this and on such details as an airborne alert, it goes beyond the administration's stand - pat position that the nation's military might is adequate.

Nixon never had disagreed publicly with the administration stand although he has promised to review the defense program from month to month if he reaches the White House.

Submarine Base In Congo Seen As Aim Of Soviet

WASHINGTON (AP)—One of the major objectives in the Soviet Union's effort to gain a foothold in the Congo may be establishment of a vitally strategic submarine base which would lay the whole South Atlantic ocean area open to Soviet military threat.

For this reason, some Western strategists and diplomats see an extra factor of urgency in securing the Congo under United Nations control. Soviet technicians already are in the Congo, flown there on the first Soviet transport planes which carried token aid shipments.

They arrived, following Communist pattern, ostensibly to give guidance in stabilizing the new nation's economy. But they could lay the groundwork for later military works.

Aside from the obvious need for keeping Communist economic and political influence out of Africa, the military menace could be grave in the view of experts here.

They sum it up something like this:

The Red navy now has no bases from which submarines can operate directly into tropical and semitropical areas.

Use of an operating base in the Congo would place Red submarines in a position to interdict the shipping lanes of the South Atlantic through which traffic passes to South America, South Africa and the Indian Ocean. Missile-firing submarines could have immediate access to routes from which they could launch attack on Western Hemisphere cities.

The immediate objective is to get the port complex at the mouth of the Congo River, below the capital city of Leopoldville, back into operation. For this reason, the United Nations was reported to be sending engineering experts.

If port facilities are not put into full operation quickly a vacuum will exist into which the Soviet union would be only too willing to move, in the view of Washington.

As far as is known here, the fighting so far has caused no major damage to port facilities.

However, the lower, tidal reaches of the huge Congo River are dumping masses of silt into channels. The Belgians have left the dredges and other equipment normally used in keeping channels open, but since the ousting of Belgian personnel there has been no one to work the equipment.

Man Admits Slaying Ex-Wife With Shotgun

CHICAGO (AP)—Police said Saturday the operator of a hot dog stand admitted the pre-dawn shotgun slaying of his ex-wife after lying in ambush in the vestibule of her suburban Forest Park home.

Mrs. Rose Orabutt, 37, was shot twice in the face with a 12-gauge shotgun as she entered her home after a card party. She had just dismissed three women friends whom she had asked to accompany her home for protection.

The three women identified Mrs. Orabutt's ex-husband, Joseph Orabutt, 37, in a lineup at a police station. The three said they watched, terrified, as Orabutt shot his wife twice in the face as she opened the door, then decapitated her with another shotgun blast as she lay on the front walk.

Police said Orabutt was drunk. He was arrested while feigning sleep at his home, two hours after the shooting.

They quoted him as saying, "I should have done it a long time ago. She wasn't taking care of the kids."

Stratton To Back Dirksen For 2nd Spot On Ticket

CHICAGO (AP)—Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said Saturday he would be happy to have his name placed before the Republican National Convention for the vice presidential nomination.

Dirksen, Senate minority leader, told newsmen he expects his name to be offered by Gov. William G Stratton, who has been insisting that Republican leaders consider the Midwest in the vice presidential picture.

Under Stratton's direction, the GOP state convention in Decatur in June voted unanimously to back Dirksen as a favorite son candidate for the running mate position.

Some national convention delegates, however, indicated they favored Sen. Thruston Morton of Kentucky for the second spot if the drive behind Dirksen fails to get off the ground. Stratton has said he would consider that a candidate from Kentucky represents the Midwest.

PLATFORM WORKERS SEEK TO RECONCILE DISSIDENT ELEMENTS

Nixon-Rockefeller views on national defense, economics, foreign policy and civil rights.

After a long session the full Platform Committee broke up and decided to reconvene later after subcommittees had a chance to thrash out problems. This indicated party leaders were experiencing difficulty in selling some of the stipulated platform planks.

Most opposition came from members representing Dixie.

They balked at the civil rights portion of the Nixon-Rockefeller declaration. This pledged aggressive action to eliminate racial discrimination "in all areas of national life—voting and housing, schools and jobs." It endorsed sit-in demonstrations and urged businessmen to serve all customers regardless of race.

Nixon went along with Rockefeller's pet plan for regional confederations of nations to solidify free world defenses against communism. The vice president, too, endorsed an expanded national defense plan with "no price ceiling on America's security."

The agreement embodied earlier Rockefeller plans for reorganizing defense and foreign policy planning. It contained a reminder that Nixon once called for a five per cent annual growth rate, a goal more lately urged by Rockefeller.

Benson Picks Rockefeller

Benson said in his statement and reiterated on the phone that he is not endorsing any candidate in advance of the balloting and will not work for the nomination of either Nixon or Rockefeller although he is going to Chicago early Monday.

Benson, whose policies have made him one of the most controversial figures in President Eisenhower's Cabinet, added he would actively support any ticket named by the convention.

Asked why he issued his statement at this time, Benson said he had been asked to do so "by a great many of my friends." He would not identify these friends.

Benson said he prepared the statement at his office Friday afternoon. It was delivered Saturday by hand, in plain, unmarked envelopes to news offices in the capital.

The secretary said that of course he did not know of the Friday night's meeting between Nixon and Rockefeller when he prepared his statement but that this has no effect on his position.

★ GRAYSON'S SCOREBOARD ★

By HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A few days ago, Pancho Herrera nearly knocked down the scoreboard in right-center field at Connie Mack Stadium in the ninth inning to beat Vernon Law and give the rebuilt and exciting Phillies their fourth victory in five games with the league-leading Pirates.

At 26, the six-foot-two, 210-pound Herrera has been in organized baseball a half dozen years. Where have they been hiding a whacker like him?

"Always Philadelphia chain, but never much chance," explained Senor Herrera, with a mischievous smile and twinkle in his eyes. "First baseman since a kid in Havana, but they play me in the outfield at Syracuse and Schenectady and at second and third base at Miami and Buffalo. The Phillies tried me out at third base in 1958 and this year second base."

* * *

WHEN SENOR HERRERA led the International League in hits, home runs, runs-batted-in and batting, General Manager John Quinn made room for him where he belongs — at first base — by trading Ed Bouchee.

"I am too big to play second base and worried myself into errors at third, and this affect my hitting," explained Senor Herrera. "Catcher no play shortstop. First base more better for me."

There may not be enough capable ballplayers to fill the rosters of a third big league, but through the years a sizable number of stars have been bypassed in the minors by major league outfits.

"Norm Larer is perhaps the most striking current example of this," cut in Lee Walls, the outfielder, while we were chatting with Senor Herrera. "They shipped this guy around the Horn and back again before he finally got up to play a vital part in winning a world championship for the Dodgers."

* * *

LARKER, CURRENTLY leading the National League in batting, was 18 when he reported to the Dodgers' Hazleton branch in the North Atlantic League.

Ten years and seven clubs later Larker, the solid man, finally crashed the parent club, but as an outfielder, not first base, which he had played all his life. This season, crowding 30, he at last comes into his own, playing first base oftener than Gil Hodges, who had to wear out no little in order for Larker to move in.

Another bright Phillie obtained in a trade is Ken Walters, a 26-year-old outfielder who can hit, run and throw. The guy had been in the Detroit system for eight years.

"It was a great break for me when I got out of the Detroit organization," he said. "I went to the Tigers' camp three times, but they hardly looked at me."

* * *

THIS COULD GO ON and on. Johnny Blanchard has been in the Yankees' organization for nine years, was rated a slick catcher in the minors before he put in two years of military service. This is his second campaign with the parent outfit, but he has yet to catch enough to break in a new glove.

Professional ballplayers are still sentenced to a huge chain gang, where major league clubs can protect them in their own interests for four years and then send them out on option three years more for seven.

So, you see, it's a tremendous stroke of good fortune for guys like Norm Larker, Pancho Herrera, Ken Walters and Johnny Blanchard to finally be made trusties.

INFLATION ON THE HOOF

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP)—Inflation has hit the Pony Express, too.

Stamp collectors sending a special cachet on the recent Pony Express cachet on the recent Pony Express centennial rerun paid $100 a half ounce.

One hundred years ago the postal rate on the original Pony Express was $5 a half ounce. It was later lowered to $1 as the telegraph lines moved westward and offered more competition.

Marichal Stops Pirates For 2nd Win, 3-2

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Rookie Juan Marichal pitched his second victory in as many major league starts Saturday, stopping the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-2 on four hits. Home runs by Bob Schmidt and Willie Mays powered San Francisco to its victory.

The defeat, coupled with Milwaukee's victory over Chicago, cut the Pirates' National League lead to 1½ games over the second-place Braves.

Marichal stopped Philadelphia 2-0 on one hit Tuesday night after coming up from Tacoma in the Pacific Coast League.

Veteran Harvey Haddix, now 6-6, took the loss.

Schmidt's homer in the third inning was a solo shot.

Aaron Takes Over NL Homer Lead, Braves Win 3-0

CHICAGO (AP) — Hank Aaron took over the National League homer lead Saturday as he smacked his 28th in Milwaukee's 3-0 defeat of the Chicago Cubs for the second-place Braves, eighth win the the past 10 games.

Aaron homered with one out and the bases empty in the ninth. Loser Don Cardwell, who suffered his 10th loss among 14 decisions despite the fact he pitched a four-hitter, was the victim of Aaron's blast.

FOR SWEETER SAP

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP) — If scientists at the University of Vermont succeed in a project now in its third year, Vermont's sugar and syrup producing maples will yield sweeter and sweeter sap as the years go by.

The geneticists are checking the sap-sweetness of trees and, from them, cuttings are being rooted in an effort to increase the yield from what Vermonters call the "sugar bush."

White Sox, Back From Grave, Haunt First Place Yankees; Sievers Most Responsible

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Ask any member of the Chicago White Sox who has been most responsible for their sweeping comeback that has them within three percentage points of the top in the American League and the reply is "Roy Sievers."

"That guy has been a life saver for us," said pinch-hitting expert Earl Torgeson, "He may not be our big man but he's the key man. We'll win this thing if nothing happens to him."

"Sievers has been the difference," said second baseman Nellie Fox. "The guy has given the club a big lift. I don't know how many games he's won for us, but it looks like he wins one every other day for us."

"That man ees great," said Minnie Minoso in his broken English. "I know every time I get on base, he drive me in. Sure thing. I run, he swing, I score. So easy."

Sievers rapped two of Chicago's 18 hits Friday night and drove in a run in the White Sox' 11-5 romp over the New York Yankees.

Sievers, who established a high for the league by hitting safely in 21 straight games recently, now has hit in 23 of his last 24 games, collecting 37 hits in 91 times at bat for a .406 mark to raise his average from .241 to .303. He has driven in 28 runs in those games. The White Sox won 18 of them to climb from fifth place to a virtual tie with the Yankees for first.

"There's still a long way to go," said Manager Al Lopez. "But we should win—if we keep playing the way we have been during the past four weeks. We were terrible the first half. Our pitching went sour and the club made a lot of mistakes.

"Our pitching has come around lately and the boys have been playing the way they were supposed to play. Sievers has given the club a big lift. Nellie and Luis (Aparicio) are getting on base again and, of course, Minnie and Al Smith have been hitting around .310 to .320 all year. But the big guy on our offense has been Sievers. He's just been great."

Early Wynn, seeking his sixth victory, started for the Sox but Lopez yanked him in the fourth with a 7-4 lead. Turk Lown was not his usual self in relief and Lopez brought in Frank Baumann. The left-hander was superb as he picked up his seventh victory.

The Yankee pitching was terrible. Bob Turley, the first of four hurlers, was charged with his second defeat. In all, it was the biggest bombardment against Yankee pitching this season.

ASHLAND CITY, Tenn. (AP)—The Rev. Frank Simpkins, 96, a retired Free Will Baptist minister, holds the distinction of having a Methodist church named after him. By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Chicago White Sox, charging back from the grave, have streaked within three percentage points of the American League-leading New York Yankees — the club that left 'em for dead.

The Sox, tearing up their obituary that was typed by New York writers when the Yankees swept a four-game series at Chicago in mid-June, busted back for 18 hits and an 11-5 romp in the opener of a four-game set at Yankee Stadium Friday night.

It was the sixth straight success for the Sox, their longest string of the season, and 20th in their last 28 games.

Third-place Cleveland stayed 2½ games back, losing 6-4 at Boston as Vic Wertz drove in four runs with a homer and two singles. Baltimore's fourth-place Orioles, ending their home losing string at seven, trailed by three games after beating Detroit 2-1 with a pair of unearned runs. Kansas City netted six unearned runs in defeating Washington 9-4.

In the National League, Pittsburgh padded its lead to 2½ games over Milwaukee again, winning 4-1 at San Francisco after the Braves lost 8-7 to the last-place Chicago Cubs. Los Angeles regained third place by one percentage point over St. Louis, defeating Philadelphia 2-0 on Don Drysdale's four-hit, 14-strikeout pitching. The Cardinals won 8-3 at Cincinnati.

The White Sox, trailing by six games in fourth place on July 4, simply kept rolling on a tear in which they have knocked 70 hits in five games. They've scored 47 runs in that spree, getting five of them in the fourth inning Friday night to beat Bob Turley (6-2), who had won six straight.

Early Wynn, starting pitcher, singled in the first run of the frame, breaking a 2-all tie. Minnie Minoso, who batted in three runs, clinched it with a two-run double.

Bill Skowron, who hit in a double play with the bases loaded in the fifth inning against winning reliever Frank Baumann (7-4), drove in two of the Yank runs.

At Boston, Wertz walloped a three-run homer, his 11th, in the third inning for a 4-3 lead against loser Jim Grant (6-5), then singled home the winning run in the ffith. Ted Williams also homered for the Red Sox, his 15th and No. 507 of his career.

Singles by Walt Dropo and Brooks Robinson and errors by Frank Bolling and Chico Fernandez gave it to the Orioles and reliever Jack Fisher (6-8), who blanked the Tigers on six hits for seven frames.

The A's wrapped it up with four unearned runs in the sixth at Washington, thanks to an error by Jim Lemon, who hit his 24th home run for the Senators.

Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh credits the comebacks of Bob Friend, Bob Skinner, Roberto Clemente and Bill Mazeroski with having much to do with the Pirates' showing this season.

Detroit Tiger base runners were thrown out trying to steal only 17 times in 1959. It tied the American League record for fewest times caught.

Trainer George M. Odom, 77, a native of Columbus, Ga., won the 1904 Belmont Stakes with Delhi. He quit riding at 22 due to weight problems.

Downstate Prep Notes

By JOHN CAMPBELL

Peoria high school fans will pay more for their entertainment during the 1960-61 football and basketball season. Robert Burt, director of pupil services, confirmed the report during the week and said that the increase would be used to help defray the cost of insurance for the athletes. The proposed prices would be: Football, Adults $1.25; Students of other schools 60c in advance; Elementary students 35c. Basketball: Adults $1.10; Elementary students 35c. The prices of activity tickets according to Burt which are used by the schools will also be revised and the individual schools would make those changes. It is the first boost in prices for athletic events in more than ten years with Central and Woodruff using a similar plan the past several years but Manual hasn't had a program. Whenever a boy was injured at Manual he was sent to a doctor for treatment and the school paid the bill. Burt said the new arrangement would permit the schools to pay most of the insurance with the athletes paying a token fee for membership in the plan.

Bruce Boyle has been added to the Peoria Central coaching staff and he was Frosh coach at Limestone (Bartonville) last season. Football practice is forbidden by the Illinois High School Athletic Association until August 29 but several coaches are making plans for the issuing of football gear and getting physical examinations out of the way. This will enable them to get their charges in top condition early when the practice sessions open.

Jacksonville high's domination of Decatur basketball came to an end. During the 1957-58 campaign Coach John Chapman's Crimsons downed St. Teresa, Lakeview, MacArthur and Eisenhower in order. Jacksonville had beaten Lakeview 74-58 and MacArthur 69-60 before Coach Joe Venturi's St. Teresa five downed the Morgan five in a 74-68 overtime struggle.

Pinckneyville high was impressive last season but Coach Don Stanton has six very capable performers returning for the 1960-61 season including Jack Morganthaler, who Coach Stanton stated two years ago that he "is destined for a fine future." Coach Stanton brought the fast break he picked up at St. Louis University to Pinckneyville when he replaced veteran mentor Duster Thomas three years ago. The fast break caught on slowly during the first season for Stanton as his "Pincks" lost 12 of the first 17 games but closed the season with a rush. Ten straight wins carried the Panthers to a regional title before losing to a tall Lincoln (East St. Louis) five in the Sectional grind. Big loss at Pinckneyville via graduation include 6-6 center Dave Roach, Ed Bigham, leading scorer and dangerous off the fast break because of the ball handling skill and speed. Jon Nelson, one of the best defensive players, and Ron Shirk, 6-5 reserve.

Hillsboro high has a fine cage performer in Junior Fred Wampler. Coach "Buzz" Ott said "Wampler has the best touch I've seen since I've been here and he's a good student, too." The 6 foot star has been a regular at Hillsboro high for two years and with two more years of eligibility left. Only one senior played for the Hilltoppers last season, Bruce Gunn, while two sophs last year, Dan Drum and Ron Berton, and junior Ron Terneus are as good as any two small boys in the Hillsboro area. It appears that the former Bradley University cage star is getting his team ready for the 1960-61 season with an experienced squad. Ott led Hillsboro to second in the 1949 State finals with his ball handling and marksmanship, perhaps he is building up for a return trip to Champaign.

Jack Wales is the new football coach at Johnston City Township high school succeeding Tom Peeler who moved to Canton. Wales served the last four years as coach at Chester and he is a graduate of Murray, Ky. State College. He will be assistant coach in basketball and track. Coach Bill Wilson of Lewistown high will attend a basketball coaching clinic at the University of Wisconsin in August. Lewistown high students will move into their new school building during the Christmas holidays and a home game with Quincy high has been scheduled.

Bartzen, MacKay Meet In Finals Of Clay Courts

CHICAGO (AP)—Defending champion Bernard (Tut) Bartzen swept past Rod Laver of Australia Saturday, 6-4, 6-1, 6-8, 6-2 and earned a finals berth in the National Clay Court Tennis Tournament.

Bartzen seeking a fourth clay courts title and his third straight meets Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, in Sunday's championship game. MacKay Friday defeated Jon Douglas 4-6, 6-4, 10-12, 6-3, 6-3, in the other semifinal match.

Mrs. Dorothy Head Knode entered the women's finals by defeating Nancy Richey, 6-4, 11-9.

Mrs. Knode will meet unseeded Gwyneth Thomas of Shaker Heights, Ohio, for the championship. Miss Thomas gained the finals Friday, defeating Carole Caldwell of Santa Monica, Calif., 7-5, 6-1.

Mrs. Knode, the 35-year-old star from Panama City who won the clay courts title in 1951, 1955 and 1958, had little difficulty in defeating her 17-year-old rival from San Angelo, Tex., in the first set.

Miss Richey, however, held leads of 4-2 and 5-3 in the second set only to see Mrs. Knode even the score at 5-5. The two played 10 more games before Mrs. Knode could end the match.

Rushville Little League Stops Jacksonville, 8-2

Superior hitting proved a decisive advantage for the Rushville Little League All-Stars Friday night as they eliminated the Jacksonville (South) All-Stars from the tournament now in progress in Beardstown. The Rushville boys managed twelve hits off the two men who worked the mound for Jacksonville, Minor and Coleman, even though the local hurlers were both throwing hard.

Several errors at crucial times also proved unfortunate for Jacksonville. The local offense faltered several times when they had men on base and failed to come through with the needed hits. Jack Sparrow was the leading hitter for the group hitting the Rushville pitchers for a double and a single in two times at bat.

Rushville's superior hitting ability and their skill in providing hits at critical moments was the deciding factor in the outcome of the game.

Jacksonville (North) lost to Beardstown Thursday evening and the South squad yielded its chance for the tournament to Rushville Friday, thereby eliminating Jacksonville from further tourney competition.

Rained out games will be resumed at the local Little League diamond on Monday.

Giants Just Give Up In Candlestick Park

By CHARLIE PARK
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

SAN FRANCISCO —(NEA)— Do you want to know what's wrong with the Giants?

The players have been thinking negatively. As a result, they have been overpowered and discouraged by the wind at new Candlestick Park.

In order to bounce back and fulfill the pre-season hopes of their fans who tabbed them to win the pennant they must think positively.

This analysis was made for a San Francisco newspaper by a regular on the club whose name was not printed to spare him embarrassment.

"It isn't that the fellows are not trying," said this member of the Giants' thinking man's club, who sounds suspiciously like Shortstop Eddie Bressoud. "They are, but the idea that they can't play at Candlestick Park is now in their subconscious minds.

* * *

"They go on the field with the idea that they can't play in that wind regardless of how hard they try. They feel particularly that they can't hit here.

"Sure, we won a lot of games here early in the season, but look back. The pitchers turned in a succession of games that probably hasn't been matched for sustained effort in the recent history of the National League. But we didn't hit. We won by low scores.

"Another thing is defense. Have you seen in the past two seasons that the Giants have been in San Francisco as many games lost on defense as we've lost this year at Candlestick Park? That's another thing that has caused the building up of a negative attitude in the players' minds. Too many easy outs have been lost in the wind."

* * *

This gag is making the rounds and reflecting the attitude of the area: "At the beginning of the season the experts were saying, 'The Giants are team to beat,' and sure enough that's what everybody's been doing."

The Giants are fielding a pretty unpopular bunch. Bagdad on the Bay has soured on the club to such an extent that the natives are even putting the rap on their radio announcers. Vin Scully and Jerry Doggett, voices of the Los Angeles Dodgers, completely outclass the San Francisco announcers, a fan complained in print.

This brought the editorial comment that "lack of enthusiasm of the Giants on the field has apparently made its way up into the radio booth."

Pirates Boom Once More, Lengthen Lead In National

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Yep, those Pittsburgh Pirates really were falling apart. They lost five of seven and their National League lead was chopped to a mere half-game over the Milwaukee Braves. But now, the Bucs are booming again, padding their lead to 2½ games once more.

Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell, shaky, but tough when things got rough, pitched the Pirates to a 4-1 victory at San Francisco Friday night. It was their second straight after that slump that followed the All-Star game break.

The Braves, after winning seven straight, dropped their second in succession, just barely missing with late home-run power in an 8-7 loss at Chicago to the last-place Cubs.

Los Angeles regained third place by beating Philadelphia 2-0 behind the four-hit, 14-strikeout pitching of right-hander Don Drysdale. St. Louis, just one percentage point behind the Dodgers, defeated Cincinnati 8-3 as Curt Simmons pitched his first complete game since 1958.

In the American League, the streaking Chicago White Sox closed within three percentage points of first-place New York, whipping the Yankees 11-5. Boston beat Cleveland 6-4, Baltimore defeated Detroit 2-1, and Kansas City won 9-4 at Washington.

Three runs in the fifth inning, capped by Bob Skinner's two-out, two-run single, brought the Pirates from behind. Willie Mays hit his 19th home run for the Giants in the first inning, but Mizell, (6-5) then blanked them on eight hits.

Drysdale (8-10) tied the NL strikeout high for nine innings this season—fanning the last six men he faced—for his fourth straight victory and first shutout. Frank Howard's bases empty home run, his 15th, beat Gene Conley (6-6) in the second inning.

Simmons, the southpaw who was released by the Phils, gained a 2-0 record with his first complete game in nine starts since Sept. 1, 1958. He allowed six hits including homers by Frank Robinson and Willie Jones. The Cards scored three in the first, climaxed by Daryl Spencer's 12th home run, and then won it with two more in the third.

Rookie Ron Santo was 3-for-4 and drove in three runs for the Cubs, tagging relief pitcher Joey Jay for the clinching run with a solo homer, his second, in the seventh inning.

WHERE THERE'S A WILL

BALTIMORE (AP)—One Baltimore woman insisted on reaching her husband when he was a patron of a tavern with an unlisted telephone number.

"I'm having a baby!" she screamed to the operator. "I've GOT to talk to my husband."

The emergency was honored. The call went through and the husband was called to the telephone.

"Ed," said the wife, "bring me home two hard crabs."

Moryn's Homer Gives Cards 7-5 Victory

CINCINNATI (AP)—Walt Moryn belted his second home run as a Cardinal and fourth of the season Saturday, giving St. Louis a 7-5 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Lindy McDaniel nailed down the victory in relief, his 37th appearance as a fireman for the Cards this season. He lost a two-run lead in the ninth inning on a two-run homer by Frank Robinson.

But Bob Grim, the fourth Cincinnati pitcher, set up Moryn's deciding poke with a walk to Joe Cunningham.

A late rally gave the Cards a tie with one run in the eighth. They got two more in the ninth on Bill White's two-run double.

The game was pockmarked with errors and defensive miscues, and four of the 12 runs were unearned.

Hegan Ends Days As Veteran

CHICAGO (AP) — The playing days of veteran Jim Hegan apparently came to an end Saturday when the Chicago Cubs asked waivers on the 39-year-old catcher.

Hegan will be signed as a Cub coach if no major league clubs claim him within three days, a Cub spokesman said.

Sammy Taylor, 27-year-old veteran, was restored to the roster after spending 30 days on the disabled list with a sore arm.

Taylor, a left-handed hitter, was batting .295 before the arm injury. He was obtained from the Milwaukee Braves in 1957 in the Bob Rush deal. Cub officials said Taylor would take over the number one catching job.

Hegan was assigned as a free agent this season. He was hiting .209 for the Cubs with one home run and five runs-batted-in.

FRANCIS S. GRABS HONORS IN DWYER STAKES

NEW YORK (AP) — Francis S., a promising early season candidate for 3-year-old honors, took the lead at the start of the $54,100 Dwyer Stakes Saturday and never relinquished the advantage for a neck victory over favored Irish Lancer at Aqueduct.

Weatherwise trailed by another three lengths for third place in the field of four 3-year-olds.

TECATION ROMPS AWAY WITH PRIZE AT MONMOUTH OAKS

OCEANPORT, N.J. (AP) — Fred W. Hooper's Teacation, who was supposed to set a swift pace so stablemate Confuse could come from behind, just kept on running Saturday under Jockey Walter Blum and romped off with the $57,900 Monmouth Oaks.

Foxcatcher Farm's Berlo, the 6-5 favorite, finished fourth, never a threat.

Teacation covered the mile and an eighth in 1:49 2-5 and was a length and a quarter in front of Refute, another longshot. Rash Statement was another two lengths back, a head in front of Berlo.

Sox Claim Yanks, Police Took Their Fireworks

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Veeck, president of the Chicago White Sox Saturday charged the Yankees with enlisting the aid of New York's police and fire department to prevent the Sox reciprocal display of fireworks at Yankee Stadium Friday night.

The White Sox had intended to fire a mortar filled with fireworks if they hit a home run against the Yankees. Fire Chief Edward J. Cavanaugh led a squad of firemen into the Chicago clubhouse before the game and confiscated a 30-inch high cylinder containing the fireworks. Fireworks are not permitted in New York City.

The stunt began with the fireworks-shooting scoreboard in Comiskey Park, home of the White Sox. On their last visit to Chicago, June 17, the Yankees lighted Fourth of July sparklers in the dugout when their players hit home runs.

"We thought the Yankee gesture of igniting sparklers in Chicago was a very cute gimmick and we were quick to acknowledge their ingenuity," said Veeck.

"However, we attempted to reciprocate last night and it was evident the Yankees were at their best on the 'giving' and not 'receiving' and as they enlisted the aid of the New York fire and police departments, even to the extent of bringing the fire commissioner, flanked by a score of assistants, to aid them in withholding an added attraction for the fans.

"We admit to having carefully planned a fireworks display last night, to be set off if we hit a home run. It seems that one wasn't necessary as singles and doubles proved adequate.

"Our plans included sending our fireworks chief, an experienced pyrotechnics expert, to New York by train with the aerial rocket. We were not planning a hit-or-miss operation, but had our expert in Yankee Stadium to set off the mortar and had even gone to the expense of securing fireworks insurance on Yankee Stadium and its patrons through Lloyds of London," Veeck said.

Sporting News To Recognize Relief Pitchers

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Sporting News said Saturday it would give long overdue recognition this year to baseball's forgotten men, relief pitchers.

The leading relief pitchers in the National and American Leagues will be honored each year on the basis of games saved and victories.

Special bronze trophies, symbolic of the reliever's ability to rescue, will bear a pitcher wearing a fireman's hat.

In determining the number of saves, The Sporting News said it would adhere to the basic rule that a reliver is credited with a save only if he faces the tying run at the plate. Only one save will be awarded per game.

T. V. Lark Wins Arlington Classic

CHICAGO (AP) — T. V. Lark, owned by C. R. McCoy of Pasadena, Calif., Saturday won the $135,600 Arlington Classic by about three-quarters of a length over John William, while the even-money favorite Venetian Way finished third.

Ridden by John Sellers, T.V. Lark grabbed the lead on the turn for home and covered the mile in 1:36 1-5 in winning an $86,500 ppt.

Venetian Way, the Kentucky Derby winner, packed 123 pounds with Eddie Arcaro aboard and shared top weight with John William. T.V. Lark carried 120.

BRETTSCHNEIDER LEAVES AFTER STORMY SESSION

RIVER FOREST, Ill. (AP) — Carl Brettschneider, veteran linebacker of the St. Louis Football Cardinals, walked out of the National Football League club's training camp after a stormy contract session Friday.

Managing Director Walter Wolfner of the Cards immediately announced that Brettschneider had been placed on the reserve list.

Wolfner said, "I'm trying to make a deal for him somewhere. If he wants to come back, it will cost him a heavy fine for leaving camp without permission."

Brettschneider, 6-1 and 225-pounds, had been rated the number one linebacker.

JOHANSSON LIKES L.A.

MARSTRAND, Sweden (AP)— Ingemar Johansson, who lost the world heavyweight boxing title to Floyd Patterson on June 20, said Saturday he was satisfied with Los Angeles as the site of the rematch and also was happy with Nov. 1 as the probable date.

"I'm going to the United States in September," he said, "and until then I am taking it easy. I'll have two months in which to train and that should be enough."

Palmer Six Strokes Off Pace As Sanders Captures Lead In PGA

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

AKRON, Ohio (AP)— Doug Sanders, a young player with an unorthodox golf game, shot one of his best all-time rounds Saturday to go into the lead in the PGA Championship at the 54-hole mark.

Sanders, playing what he termed "real good golf," fired a third-round 69 over the sun-baked 7,165-yard, par 35-35—70 Firestone Country Club course and gained a one-stroke lead over three rivals with one round to go in the tournament.

The Firestone course, supposedly made tougher, turned out to be surprisingly easy for the 94 remaining pros in the tournament. Jim Ferrier, a 45-year-old Australian-born veteran from California, shot a record 66 and tied with Sam Snead and Friday's leader, Jay Hebert at 211. Don January was next with 212.

Arnold Palmer, the Open and Masters champion and favorite in this tournament, ran afoul of the fearsome 16th hole and wound up six strokes back at 216. Palmer found about every imaginable trouble on the 625-yard 16th and took an eight, three over par. Then he bogied the last two holes.

It was a day of thrills and excitement for 11,347 cash customers who made up a record gallery for the third round. With all the top contenders except Ferrier in the last two threesomes, the mob gathered to watch the lead change almost hole by hole.

It was a day when Ben Hogan, without a birdie for 54 holes, failed to make the 54-hole cut and when Cary Middlecoff had to sweat out a long committee meeting before PGA officials decided merely to reprimand him for slow play instead of penalizing him. Hogan, with a third-round 78 for 225, missed the cutoff point by one stroke.

The last time Hogan failed to make the cut in a tournament was in the 1957 Masters. Even he couldn't remember when he had played 54 holes without a birdie.

Sanders, who will be 27 Sunday, has been a top performer on the pro tour for about three years. His biggest victory was in the Canadian Open, while he still was an amateur.

He uses an unusually short backswing, which he claims allows little latitude for trouble.

It was a superb putting exhibition that put him out in front. On the front nine he holed putts of 10 feet, 6 inches, 40 feet, 10 feet and 50 feet for birdies on the front nine.

Don Fairfield of Casey, Ill., fired a 74 Saturday to lead the Illinois golfers who qualified for the Professional Golfers Assn. championship at the Firestone Country Club course.

Other Illinois qualifiers:

George Bayer, Gleneagles, Ill., 71-73-76—220.

Fairfield, Barber In Finals

Don Fairfield, Jacksonville professional golfer, blew hot and cold in the third round of the 42nd PGA Championship Saturday. He made 34 on the front side of this controversial Firestone Course but his efforts on the in-nine netted him only a 5 over par 40 and a 54 hole total of 219.

Jerry Barber, formerly of Jacksonville but registered now out of Los Angeles, had a creditable 72 today for a 221 score at the end of three rounds. For the stretch run today Fairfield will start with a seemingly impossible nine strokes to make up while Barber is imposted with an even more difficult 11 stroke disadvantage.

This Firestone Course is many things to many people and it has been described as everything from impossibly tight to just a long average test by the contestants here. It has been definitely established that a major factor in the way it plays is the amount of traffic that passes over the green. Early starters putt well and score well while the later starters are almost all bothered by the spike marks of previous players.

Fairfield who is one of the tour's true gentlemen missed an excellent chance to move into a challenging position for the final round. He missed putt after putt on the course today and on four different occasions his ball literally seemed to jump out of the hole. He made four bogies and a disastrous double bogie on the back nine and only one birdie, and what could have been an attack for the tournament title for tomorrow will more than likely be to finish with as much of this $63,130 prize money as possible. The winner will be enriched by $11,000. The Fairfields have not found the golfing tour as profitable as last when they collected $22,000. So far this year they have banked only $5,200.

Barber has not been able to put two good rounds together here and his chief difficulty has been his lack of distance from the tee. The slightly built native of Woodson who has earned $32,000 on tour this year, has simply not been strong enough or long enough. Last year at this point of the tournament Jerry appeared to be set to become the oldest man at 41 ever to win the PGA title. Bogies on the last two holes cost him this decision.

Decatur Girl Takes Tennis Tourney Title

BLOOMINGTON, Ill. (AP)—Rhonda Monroe of Decatur defeated top-seeded Marilyn Dirkse of East Peoria Saturday for the singles championship for girls 15-and-under in the Twin Cities Tennis Tournament.

Miss Monroe defeated Miss Hamm 6-4, 7-5 after downing the No. 2 seed Marilyn Dirkse of East Peoria in Friday's semifinals.

Alice Luthy of Peoria won the junior women's championship for the second year in a row, defeating Jean Propst of Decatur 6-0, 6-4 Saturday.

Ken Ayers of Decatur defeated Mike Meis of Decatur 6-0, 6-0 for the championship among boys 15 and under.

Bobby Riggs Jr., of Chicago and top-seeded Gary Garver of Decatur will meet Sunday for the championship among junior men—18 and under.

Riggs defeated second-seeded Kappy Pielet of Hinsdale 6-1, 6-0 while Garver defeated Ross Canterbury of Peoria 6-4, 6-2 in the semifinals.

A late afternoon rain interrupted the second round of senior women's singles. Semifinals in men's singles will be played Sunday.

Webb Will Take 44 Colts For All-Star Game

WESTMINSTER, Md. (AP) — Coach Weeb Ewbank said Saturday he will take a squad of 44 Baltimore colts to play the College All Stars Aug. 12 in Chicago.

Ewbank said that Otto Graham, coach of the All Stars, probably will have the same number for the game in Soldier Field.

The Colts will hold an unusual field workout Sunday afternoon. In the past, the first Sunday after training camp opens had been limited to a written test.

The veteran Colts checked into their Western Maryland College training site Wednesday and started hard and fast. "It shows they're in shape and ready to go," said Ewbank.

Of the Chicago White Sox first 77 games this season, relief pitcher Gerry Staley appeared in 35. He won nine games and made innumerable saves.

Pappa's All Cops Juvenile At Hollywood Park

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Pappa's All, a California 2-year-old, got back on the winning trail Saturday with a thrilling finish in the $143,200 Hollywood Juvenile Championship.

A roaring crowd estimated at 46,000 saw Jockey George Taniguchi drive the second favored Pappa's All in by a nose over a longshot, Sullivan's Bud, with Big Smoky third.

Seven 2-year-olds went to the post for the mythical championship of the Hollywood Park meeting.

Pappa's All ran up a winning streak of five until Olden Times beat him a half a length here July 12.

The time for the six furlongs was 1:10 flat.

Boswell Wins Blind Golfers Tourney -- Again

BAR HARBOR, Maine (AP)—Charlie Boswell, Birmingham, Ala., Saturday won his 11th National Blind Golfers Championship at the Kebo Valley Country Club. He has missed the prize only once since the tourney was organized.

Boswell carded a 103 for a total of 203.

Hot on Boswell's heels was former International champ Joe Lazaro of Waltham, Mass., who shot an amazing 98 Saturday to finish with a 207. Lazaro was the only man in the field of 14 to break 100.

The best nine of the day was shot by Harold Mitchell of Hamilton, Ont., a 47 on the front nine. Mitchell finished in third place with 209.

Shatter Two More Records In AAU Swimming Meet

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—American records were shattered in two more events Saturday in the AAU National Men's Swimming and Diving Championships.

Jeff Farrell, who Friday bettered the existing mark in the 100-meter freestyle, cracked the American standard Saturday in the 200-meter freestyle.

He did it in 2:03.0, clipping sixtenths of a second off the accepted mark set in 1958 by T. Yamanaka of Japan. Farrell, a 23-year-old Kansan who has been training hard for 16 months in a Navy swimming program, bettered the meet record by more than two seconds. Dick Blick of North Central (Ill.) College was only one-tenth of a second slower.

Just after Farrell's new record went up, Ron Clark, a University of Michigan senior, turned in an American record time in the 200-meter breaststroke.

This event is regarded as the one in which the United States will be weakest in the upcoming Olympic games in Rome.

Clark gave the country new hope when he churned home in 2:38.9. That betters Ken Nakasone's pending American mark of 2:41.9, done a few weeks ago at Louisville. The recognized mark is 2:43.1, set by Bill Mulliken last year.

Blick's mark of 2.03.1 bettered the American and meet record.

Roger Goeetsche of the New Trier Swim Club of Winnetka, Ill., also qualified with a mark of 1:04.5 in the 100-meter backstroke. The best qualifying time in the event went to Tom Stock of Indianapolis who was clocked in 1:03.4.

SENATORS PULL OFF FIRST TRIPLE PLAY OF SEASON

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Washington Senators pulled off the first American League triple play of the season and Harmon Killebrew hit his ninth homer as the Senators whipped the Kansas City Athletics 8-3 Saturday.

Chuck Stobbs, with five innings of four-hit, one-run relief work, was credited with his seventh victory against two defeats. Bud Daley, seeking his 13th victory, instead was tagged with his seventh setback as the Senators belted him for their first five runs in his three innings.

Boston Yields To Cleveland, 4-2

BOSTON (AP) — Cleveland rookie Mike de la Hoz cracked his first major league home run and a sacrifice fly in a 4-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox Saturday, supporting Jim Perry's 11th pitching triumph.

Willie Tasby and Ted Williams provided the Red Sox punch with solo homers.

Centerfielder Jim Piersall was thrown out of the game in the eighth inning for obstructing Williams' batting vision. Manager Joe Gordon had ruled he would fine Piersall $500 the next time Jim was ejected but got bounced himself defending his outfielder's right to dance back and forth on defense.

De La Hoz, 20-year-old Cuban, hit a sacrifice fly off loser Tom Brewer in the second inning to put the Indians ahead 2-0. He homered in the fourth, running the Indians' margin to 4-1.

De La Hoz was called up from Mobile to play shortstop for the Indians while Woody Held is sidelined by a broken finger.

Betsy Rawls Claims Fourth Women's Open

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — Betsy Rawls overcame a seven-stroke deficit and steadily mounting pressure Saturday and won an unprecedented fourth U.S. Women's Open Golf title with a 292.

The Spartansburg, S.C., golfer fired a brilliant, 4-under-par 68 in the morning round, wiping out the seven-stroke lead built up by defending champion Mickey Wright, San Diego, Calif., in the first two days.

Then, in the afternoon, she fell two strokes back of Joyce Ziske, Waterford, Wis., on the first nine, but rallied and pulled it out with a 2-under-par 35 on the last nine.

Miss Ziske, who trailed Betsy and Mickey by three strokes at the end of 54 holes, came in with a 73, one stroke back in second place.

Tall, blonde Mickey's 299 was good for fifth, one stroke back of Mrs. Marlene Bauer Hagge, Crystal River, Fla., and Mary Lena Faulk, Sea Island, Ga., who tied for third.

Miss Ziske had a par 35 on the front nine in the afternoon final round, while Miss Wright, the defending champion, and Miss Rawls, shooting for her fourth Open crown, slipped to 40s.

Miss Rawls, playing one of the best rounds of her professional career, came from seven strokes off the pace and tied Miss Wright for the lead in the morning 18 holes.

Betsy put together a 32-36—68 morning round over the 6,173-yard, par 35-37 — 72 Worcester Country Club course, matching the Women's Open record.

Mickey, the leader through the first two days, had 39-36—75, her worst round of the tourney.

With 18 holes remaining Saturday afternoon, each girl had a 217, three strokes up on Miss Ziske. Waterford, Wis., who came in with a 71 Saturday.

Marilyn Smith, French Lick, Ind., No. 2 each of the first two days, zoomed to an 83 Saturday and slipped to 227.

Miss Wright, who had been bothered by an ailing knee in her practice rounds, said she had no troubles on that score Saturday.

Orioles, Detroit Split Twi-Nighter, 4-1, 4-3

BALTIMORE (AP) — An unearned run, forced across on a bases-loaded walk by relief pitcher Clem Labine, gave the Baltimore Orioles a 4-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers in the second game of a twi-night double-header Saturday night. Detroit won the opener 4-1 as Frank Bollin and Eddie Yost hit homers to back up lefty Hank Aguirre's three-hit pitching.

Rookie Phil Regan, making his first major league start for the Tigers, was charged with the night-cap loss.

The 23-year-old right-hander allowed only two hits over the final 5 2-3 innings before Detroit shortstop Chico Fernandez opened the gates for the winning run by making a wild throw on Jackie Brandt's two-out bouncer in the ninth.

Gene Stephens, who dropped a fly ball to permit an unearned Tiger run in the sixth, then rapped a double off the right field wall, sending Brandt to third. After Gene Woodling walked to load the bases, Labine replaced Regan.

Labine worked the count to 3-2 on Jim Gentile. The Oriole cleanup hitter fouled the next pitch and then took a fourth ball.

Regan gave up single runs in the first three innings before he settled down. The Tigers came back with a single run in the third, a solo homer by Fernandez in the fifth and the unearned run in the sixth.

Hoyt Wilhelm pitched three hitless innings in relief of Hal Brown, striking out four, to pick up his eighth victory since May 22. He allowed only a scratch infield hit before Dave Nicholson homered to lead off the Oriole eighth.

By that time, a two-run homer by Bolling and a one-run homer by Yost had sewed up the southpaw's third triumph in five decisions. The loser was Jerry Walker, the first of three Baltimore pitchers.

Chicago Edges Yanks Out Of AL Top Spot

NEW YORK (AP)— Minnie Minoso cracked four straight hits and drove in three runs to boost the Chicago White Sox into first place in the American League Saturday with a 5-3 victory over the New York Yankees.

Bob Shaw, with ninth-inning help from fireman Gerry Staley, recorded his ninth victory of the season as the surging White Sox extended their winning streak to seven in a row, including two straight over the Yankees. Al Lopez' hot club has now won 21 of their last 29, dating back to June 21 when they were in fifth place.

Whitey Ford, Yankee ace, was the victim of Chicago's 11-hit assault. The veteran southpaw was tagged for nine hits and all the runs before he gave way to Ralph Terry in the sixth. The loss evened his season record at 6-6.

Minoso's fifth-inning single drove home Luis Aparicio, who had opened with a walk and had stolen his 25th base. Minnie's RBI tied the score at 1-1. New York had scored in the first on a single by Hector Lopez and Yogi Berra's double.

Chicago tallied four times in the sixth to break the tie with Minoso delivering the key hit, a single with the bases loaded.

Receipe For 1960 All-Star Football Team Includes Men From 33 Universities

Take eight each ends, tackles and guards, add six centers, four quarterbacks and ten halfbacks and fullbacks, collected from 33 universities and colleges throughout the nation, and the result is the 1060 College All-Star football team.

The collegians, assembled Thursday at Northwestern University to prepare for the 27th annual All-Star football game presented by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., will meet the Baltimore Colts, champions of the National Football League, on the night of Aug. 12 in Soldiers' Field. Baltimore, which won the 1959 All-Star game, will be seeking a repeat victory.

The All-Stars, who will be directed by Coach Otto Graham, have a squad which includes speed, size and agility, and from all early indications, the desire to win.

The ends, averaging 206 pounds and 6 feet 2 inches, include such standouts as Jim Houston, Ohio State; Monty Stickles, Notre Dame; and Don Ellersick and Gail Cogdill, Washington State.

The tackles, from 290-pound Roger Brown of Maryland State to 225-pound Paul Rochester of Michigan State average 242 pounds. On the roster are such players as Maury Youmans, Syracuse; Lou Cordileone, Clemson, and Andy Stynchula, Penn State.

The centers will provide amply pivot anchorage around players such as Jackie Burkett, Auburn; Roger Leclerc, Trinity college; Maxie Baughan, Georgia Tech; Charles Ellzey, Mississippi Southern; Bill Lapham, Iowa, and Ken Kirk of Mississippi.

The quartet of quarterbacks are proved tacticians and passers. They are Don Meredith, S.M.U.; George Izo, Notre Dame; Pete Hall, Marquette, and Ross Fichtner, Purdue.

The backs on the All-Star squad are a cross section of the nation's top offensive stars. They are Dick Bass, College of the Pacific; Walter Beach, Central Michigan; Charles Britt, Georgia; Ted Dean, Wichita; Prentice Gautt, Oklahoma; Ed Kovac, Cincinnati; Frank Nesnik, Marquette; Tom Moore, Vanderbilt; Jim Mooty, Arkansas, and Donald Perkins, New Mexico.

The squad as a whole averages 217 pounds in weight, and a little over 6 feet 2 inches in height.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

Seek 2 Men Seen Near Lumber Co. Which Burned

The lumber company, a planing mill and two residences were gutted and two other buildings damaged in the four-hour blaze that swept within one block from the central business district of this small town 15 miles northwest of Mattoon.

The state fire marshall was notified after Police Chief George Harchous reported evidence of arson. Harchous said the fire was apparently set to cover a break-in.

Harchous said the lumber company vault had been tampered with. There was no money inside, however, and nothing was taken. The police chief said two men were seen leaving the rear of a supermarket six blocks away while firemen from four departments were fighting the blazing block.

An attempt to enter the supermarket failed.

Demolished by the fire were the Gauger Lumber Co., the Hagerman and Harshman Planing Mill and residences occupied by Mrs. Florence Ballard and Mrs. Grace Niemier.

No injuries were recorded. No estimate of damages was available.

Disastrous Fires Rage Unchecked Throughout West

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Forest and brush fires raged out of control from border to border in the West Saturday.

The disastrous blazes already have claimed four lives, blackened thousands of acres of lush timberland, and caused losses mounting into the millions.

Fire fighters gained the upper hand in some areas, and held out hope of eventual victory. In other parts of the West, however, forestry officials said the fires were unchecked and the situation continued to grow more perilous.

The biggest forest fires were burning in thick pine forests in Idaho and Oregon.

A fire that already has covered 10,000 acres of woodland broke loose with a rush Saturday, and spread rapidly in the upper Hell's Canyon area—a nightmare of rugged mountains 40 miles northwest of McCall, Idaho. Six hundred men were on the fire lines.

Varied Events Spark Interest At Morgan County Fair Opening

Spectators from all walks of life and interest groups should have no trouble finding an enjoyable event at the 1960 Morgan County Junior Progress Fair when the annual exhibition opens the gates Wednesday, August 3, for a five-day run.

The long list of events are planned to spark interest for city folks as well as farm families throughout this area. The accent is on the 1960 theme, "Something Old, Something New."

Merchant Displays

A vital part of the annual exposition is the aggressive merchants and firms in Jacksonville and Morgan county who display their products and wares each year.

Merchants have been encouraged to plan their displays around the theme. The Everett Wise traveling trophy for the most progressive merchant display on the grounds will be presented to the best display that incorporates the 1960 theme. Displays will be judged in three categories.

Giant Boulevard

Merchant displays will be grouped at the east end of the race track, along Grand Avenue. Fronted with a well-lighted archway, smaller tents will be erected and lashed on one side by a steel cable supported by permanent posts set in concrete. This method, new to Jacksonville, will provide an extra margin of safety for visitors and merchants. The groupings of merchant tents will border a spacious boulevard-type walk featuring oiled and chaffed surface.

In addition, the new location will take advantage of natural drainage and be graded in such a manner as to handle the biggest "gully-washers."

Dust in the merchant area will be kept to a minimum by the surface of walks and floors.

Pony Tail Contest

Jacksonville area girls from six to 16 are eligible for a contest designed to determine the most attractive pony tail hair style. The contest should be one of stiff competition and fun for contestants and spectators alike.

Anyone in the Jacksonville area may enter the contest—grandmothers, mothers and other friends and relatives are urged to persuade someone in the family to enter between 6 and 16. The judges would like to limit the contest to girls but boys with pony tails are invited.

Mrs. Wilma Colclasure is chairman of the crowd pleasing contest which should prove to be one of the evening's highlights.

First prize will be $10; second $7.50; third $5.

Pet Parade

A large number of pets will be on hand Saturday afternoon (Aug. 6) at 2:30 o'clock for the annual pet parade.

There is no age limit for the exhibitor and the pets may be exhibited in three classes: 1—pets in costume; 2—dogs on leash; 3—pets not in class 1 or 2. Prizes in each class range from $4 for first place to $1 for sixth.

Each pet may be entered in one class only. Any pet that can be kept in or around the home is eligible for entry. Ribbons will also be awarded to the winners.

Mrs. Clarence Quintal is chairman of the contest which will be held before the grandstand audience. Mrs. Quintal reports that a prize will be awarded for the smallest as well as the largest. Entry blanks must be mailed before Aug. 1. Entry blanks are printed elsewhere in this newspaper.

Baby Parade

The annual baby parade will thrill the hearts of parents and grandparents alike—in fact, anyone who enjoys watching children do things.

The baby parade will be Thursday, Aug. 4, at 4:15 p.m. in front of the grandstand. Prizes range from $10 to $2.

The entrant must be one through six year-of-age. Parents may not accompany children on the judging ramp.

Costumes may include all types of story book characters or represent any theme desired. Mrs. Milton Birdsell, chairman of the program, decided to leave the costume up to the entrant so that a wide variety will be on hand.

Baton Twirling Contest

The baton twirling contest will be held in front of the grandstand Saturday at 4:30 p.m.

Record players will be supplied by the fair association but each contestant should bring his own record.

Solo classes will be grouped into three classes: age 10 through 13; age 14 through 17; age 18 through 21. A fourth class will include any ensemble of two or more contestants. Champions will be invited to appear between classes of the evening horse show.

All contestants will receive medals; trophies will be awarded in each class.

A separate entry blank appears in this newspaper.

Tractor Pull Contest

Everyone likes to see machinery put through its paces, and tractors are no exception. Spectators will have an opportunity to watch all makes and models perform, although a great portion of the prizes will depend a great deal on the skill of the operator.

The tractor pulling contest will be held Wednesday, Aug. 3, at 1 o'clock in front of the grandstand. Weighing in will be at the Jackson Feed Mill between 8 and 10 a.m. on the same day. The classes will be Heavy, 7,000 to 9,000 pounds; Medium, 5,000 to 7,000 pounds; Light, under 5,000 pounds.

Details of the contest may be obtained from the fair catalog. Lawrence "Jack" Smith, Jr., is chairman of the contest. Trophies and prizes will be awarded in each of the classes.

The event has long been a favorite event at a number of other fairs throughout the midwest.

Judy Seely Chosen Miss 'IRE' Of 1960

By Dorothy Sauer
(Winchester Correspondent)
(Telephone PIoneer 2-3439)

WINCHESTER—On Friday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock the new "Miss Illinois Rural Electric 1960" was selected before a large and admiring audience.

Miss Judy Seely, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Seely of White Hall was chosen as "Miss Illinois Rural Electric 1960" with Mis Liz Fitzsimmons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Fitzsimmons of Rockbridge, as runner-up with Miss Emily Jane Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brownie H. Brown of Naples, in third place. The new queen, who will compete in the Association of Illinois Electric Cooperatives' contest to be held in Springfield in September, was crowned by Miss Jan Gilmore of Roodhouse, the 1958 Queen. Little Miss Mollie Herring, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hering, was crown bearer, with Lyndell and Ronald Wallis as ushers.

Judges for the contest were Robert Blazier of Jacksonville; Fred Thady of Winchester; Mrs. Joanne Sealock, Winchester; Mr. L. Allan Watt, Winchester, and Robert Coffman, Winchester.

The twenty - second annual meeting of the Illinois Rural Electric Company was held in Winchester at the High School this past Friday, July 22, with aproximately 2500 members, their families and friends of the cooperative in attendance.

The meeting was opened with an invocation by Rev. F. V. Wright of this city. The morning session was devoted to business which, in addition to the election of directors, included detailed reports of the cooperative's operations during the past year.

F. J. Longmeyer, president of the cooperative, in addressing the members said, in part, "Because of rural electrification we now have available on the farm, at the push of a switch, unlimited power that will do over two hundred jobs for us by the substitution of power and machinery for human labor, both on the farm and in our homes. We, like our city neighbors, have electrification, which makes it possible for us to live better electrically. We older farmers, who have become used to electric power on the farm, may need someone to remind us of how we lived and farmed before rural electrification but when we are reminded it doesn't take much urging for us to join in the celebration of rural electrification's twenty-fifth birthday. To the younger generation of farmers who don't remember what life was like on the farm without electric power we can only say, take our word for it and not only celebrate every one of its birthdays, but pledge that you will take an interest in your electric cooperative, supporting it in every way so that it can continue to be a successful business that will always provide you with the best possible electric service at the lowest possible cost."

During the business the following directors were elected to serve for the ensuing year: F. L. Longmeyer, Greenfield; Walter Strubinger, El Dara; Howard Hurrelbrink, Winchester; Leonard Wood, Jacksonville; Floyd Freesmeyer, Hamburg; R. J. Myers, Griggsville; Henry Day, White Hall; V. T. Parks, Pearl; Louis Osterman, Carrollton; H. L. Vortman, Bluffs, and Robie Wallace, New Canton.

A safety award for 170,000 man hours, with no lost time accident, was presented to the employees of the cooperative by the Employers Mutuals of Wausau, Wisconsin.

Guests at the annual meeting included A. E. Becker, manager, Association of Illinois Electric Co-ops, of Springfield; John Beck, Graybar Electric Company, Springfield; Lane Walker, manager, Shelby Electric Co-op, Shelbyville; Art Peyton, manager, McDonough Power Co-op, Macomb; Ora Snider, manager, M. J. M. Electric Co-op., Carlinville; V. V. Kallid, Greenville; W. O. Randall and Paul Harmon of Jacksonville City Light and Power Company, Jacksonville.

A Real Boost

The successful firing of two Polaris missiles from a submerged submarine is an event of incalculable importance to the security of the United States.

The Polaris is a rocket upon which we have long been banking heavily. It had been succesfully tested in various preliminary stages, but this double firing was the real thing.

When the missiles were launched, the submarine George Washington rode 50 feet beneath the Atlantic surface. Discharged by compressed air, they burst into the air and then soared high as their two-stage engines flared into action.

The two 14-ton missiles traveled an 1,100-mile course, the equivalent of a third of the way across America. The launching submarine, fully loaded, could fire 16 such missiles.

This success carries with it the high promise of a vital flexibility in our nuclear missile operations.

The existence of a sizable Polaris-bearing submarine fleet would give us one assurance that the Soviet Union could not in a surprise assault wipe out all our retaliatory nuclear power.

Admittedly the Polaris is not a long range but an intermediate range missile. But it is that very fact which permits this weapon to be carried in volume by a submarine.

And a submarine is a floating, shifting base not easily detected or attacked.

This is the supreme advantage of this missile. It provides us with the means for a darting close-in, unpredictable offense that should give pause to any potential enemy whose land areas come within its range.

In the uncertainties of this turbulent age, we need protection also against the prospect that we might lose some of our rocket bases on Allied or otherwise friendly soil. The wide oceans afford us security for nuclear operations that is unmatched by any alternative we have.

Even if the development of the Polaris and its carrying submarine fleet should proceed at high pace, we cannot conclude, however, that we will thereby sharply alter the military balance in our favor.

We must expect that the Russians, too, will master the secrets of the Polaris. They already have a tremendous submarine fleet, some of it adaptable for nuclear missile launchings, all of it a menace to our own undersea and surface vessels.

Nevertheless, the Polaris successes represent a remarkable gain for this country's defense. We have greatly enlarged our defense, perimeter, and have acquired the potential for quick nuclear thrusts that must inevitably be sobering to any prospective enemy.

We'll Survive

It's official now, as confirmed by tests at the U.S. Naval School of Aviation Medicine in Pensacola: Man will be able to function in a spinning satellite.

Six men were placed in a chamber which was revolved at various speeds. Man-carrying satellites may be similarly rotated to simulate gravity in space.

The volunters came through the tests all right, but most experienced initial reactions—some of them unpleasant.

The results of these tests should be no surprise to the American voter. He is regularly spun around every four years in the revolving campaigns. And though he may suffer at times, he and the country always get back to earth after election day.

"Once More Around, Then I'll Let Him Catch Me"

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)— It was like drawing a circle around a frog and telling him not to jump out of it. This is what the United States did with Russia. And it worked, too, until the frog jumped.

And that's what put America in its latest dilemma.

Back in 1947, when George F. Kennan was head of the State Department's policy planning staff, he outlined an American plan followed ever since. As he said, it meant "holding the line and hoping for the best."

The idea was to ring Russia—then infinitely weaker than the United States—with military bases and alliances to keep it from pushing or overrunning her neighbors.

At that time, 13 years ago, the Soviet Union had no hydrogen bomb, no missiles, and Red China didn't exist. The mainland was still being run by Chiang Kai-shek, the American ally. But Kennan was doing some wistful thinking:

1. That this containment policy —military encirclement — would not only keep the Russians behind their own frontiers but would put internal pressure on the Soviet government.

2. That the pressure might hasten Soviet collapse internally or at least force a change of direction or intent because, Kennan felt and wrote, Russia contained within itself the seeds of its own destruction.

Up till now the containment policy has kept the Russians from bulldozing their immediate neighbors. But, contrary to Kennan's hopes, instead of collapse the Soviet Union's internal development has been phenomenal.

Now, 13 years later, the Russians have the hydrogen bomb, missiles probably capable of hitting America, an industrial production second only to that of the United States, and a population apparently content and loyal.

Russian strength has increased so tremendolsly that only this week New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said the balance of power has shifted to the Soviet Union. The Russians have been acting as if they believed that, too.

They still can't without risking war, push directly against the American circle drawn around them. So they have done the obvious and next-best thing for them. They have leapfrogged out of the circle.

They have done it not only by the usual propaganda and intrigue but by promises of both economic but even military help to countries on the American side of the circle. This is the most glaring example: the economic deals with Prime Minister Fidel Castro's Cuba and a warning to the United States to keep hands off. Thus the Russians, without resorting to war to smash the circle, have hopped over and are trying to set up shop in America's backyard.

This almost certainly is only the beginning of such efforts to penetrate, by one means or another, the Latin American world. And Russia's efforts to penetrate Africa will be even more barefaced.

The American government can hardly dissuade the Russians from encroaching in areas close to the United States by complaining this is our backyard.

The Russians can answer by pointing out that for years the United States has linked itself to the Soviets' next-door neighbors with economy and military help and even military alliances.

For example: If the Russians send troops into Africa at the request of the Congo government, they can remind the world that the United States sent troops into the Middle East at the request of the government of Lebanon.

There would be a difference, of course. There were no United Nations troops already in Lebanon to keep order as there are now in the Congo.

And the worst is yet to come. Mainland China, now in Red Chinese hands, in a few years with Soviet help, should be militarily strong enough to inflict the miseries on the American containment policy in the Far East.

Where does it all lead to? Some guesses can be made.

The United States will need new ideas in dealing with the Communist world. Kennan himself a couple of years ago was shifting around to the idea of a pullback in Europe.

This country will probably, in some fashion, have to make revisions in its containment policy and develop new programs to keep the rest of the world neutral or out of Communist hands.

Mental Attitude Important In Growing Old Gracefully

BY MARIE DAERR

"The largest portion of medical practice, now and in the future, will be concerned with the health and fitness of our aging population."

This statement was made at the American Geriatrics Society's meeting in Miami, Fla., by Dr. Edward L. Bortz, the group's president.

Dr. Bortz, chief of medical service at Philadelphia's Lankenau Hospital, pointed out that, while the population of the United States is double what it was 50 years ago, the over-60 age group is four times what it was at that time.

Growing old is a two-way process, Dr. Bortz told delegates to the meeting. It is just as much "growth, development and maturing" as it is "deteriorating and decline."

"If, each day, a part of us dies, there is also a rebuilding, recharging mechanism at work," Dr. Bortz said. "This dual nature of aging is all too often ignored, resulting in a huge human waste.

"The emphasis on the decline of the individual from atrophy, degeneration and disuse is the underlying basis for the cast amount of deterioration and disuse is the underlying basis for the vast amount of deterioration of many older people."

Dr. Bortz emphasized that studies now under way show that diet and exercise are key factors in maintaining health and prolonging life.

Physical fitness is not the only important consideration in aging. Mental attitudes count, too.

"The personal factor, the point of view, the enjoyment of the zest of living have much to do with how an individual ages," Dr. Bortz said. "Also important is the unity of mind and body.

"There are primary diseases of the mind as well as of the body. Modern science recognizes a hate hormone and the physical effects of fear and despair.

"These emotions result in a definite change in the chemistry of the body. Yet this chemistry of despair can be changed to that of hope and enthusiasm."

Q—I have a friend 56 years of age who married a man of 71. He was receiving social security. After five weeks of marriage, he died. When my friend reaches the age of 62, will she receive the widow's benefit (75 per cent of what her husband had been receiving)?—S. F. D.

A—Your friend is not eligible for the widow's benefit based on this husband's social security. However, she will receive the lump-sum death benefit, if she reports his death within a two-year period. You do not mention a previous marriage. If there was one, it is possible she would be eligible for social security through that.

Q—My mother and father are drawing social security, with my mother receiving half of what my dad gets. My mother never worked. Both she and dad are 79 years old. If dad dies before mother, will mother continue to get half the monthly social security benefit?.—C. R.

A—Your mother would be eligible for the widow's benefit of three-fours of the amount your father has been receiving. She also would receive the lump-sum death benefit.

Plentiful Watermelons and Peaches Are Summer Stars

BY GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Food and Markets Editor

Plan your hot day menus around foods that are plentiful now. That's a budget trick. Sweet watermelons are in large supply at present. So are firm, ripe, succulent peaches. Enjoy both often in your balanced menus.

An easy-to-make dessert when fresh peaches are in season is gingerbread waffles topped with sliced peaches. The batter may be made in advance, stored in the refrigerator in a covered container, and baked as needed. It will keep at least 5 days. For a party, bake the waffles at the table and top each with sliced fresh peaches and whipped cream.

Two cups sifted all-purpose flour, ½ teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon double-acting baking powder, 2 teaspoons ground ginger, ½ cup sugar, 2 eggs, beaten; ½ cup light mild molasses, 2/3 cup milk, ½ cup shortening, melted; 6 cups sliced fresh peaches, ¼ cup sugar, 1 cup heavy cream, whipped.

Sift the first 6 ingredients together into a mixing bowl. Combine eggs and molasses and stir into the mixture. Blend in milk and melted shortening. Bake 2 to 3 minutes at low heat, in lightly oiled waffle irons. Blend peaches with 2 tablespoons of the remaining sugar and top each waffle section with ½ cup. Sweeten whipped cream with the remaining 2 tablespoons sugar and put a tablespoonful over each serving.

In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Stewart Granger is putting a dream up for sale.

In a few weeks, when he finishes "Go North" with John Wayne, he's selling his 10,000-acre ranch in Nogales, Ariz. This is the ranch that Granger and Jean Simmons, a couple of soon-to-be-divorced Britishers, had developed into an American dream.

"Now that Jean and Tracy (their daughter, 3) are no longer there," says Granger sadly, "I couldn't live in the place. Almost everything is named after the baby. It would be too depressing."

Granger will sell the big spread and go to Europe for a series of pictures.

"I guess I'll make my residence in Switzerland now," he says. "As long as I'm over there, I might as well take advantage of it."

He's referring to the tax break so many Hollywood stars have found since establishing residence in Switzerland.

"Taxes are lower over there," says Granger, an American citizen, "because you don't get as much as you do here, so you pay accordingly. I'll miss my home in Arizona."

"I've been 25 years in the movie business," says Granger, "but the greatest thrill of my life was as a Britisher running an American ranch, winning blue ribbons for my French cattle."

"Jean and I have been knocking our brains out making movies all over the world to pay for the cattle. In about three years we had both planned to settle down in Arizona for good and never make another picture. I guess now I'll die an actor instead of a cattleman."

Dana was the spurious but hilarious wetback with Steve Allen's stock company last season. Dana, a genuine funnyman, got lots of laughs by just announcing his name in the plaintive style of a Mexican peon.

Much of his comic forte was transposing the J's and H's a la Espanol. For instance, he described Israel as a country where "the Hewish people speak Jebrew."

The Allen show is no more, but Dana, once a top comedy writer, will mastermind the new Spike Jones TV show. He will recreate Jose Jimenez for Spike.

"I am jappy to say that the boss likes heem," says Jose of Bill the producer.

Dana has an album out of his spots of the Allen show. It proves that a genuine funnyman needs no clever lines to get laughs.

The spots, in chronological order, show that Dana got guffaws at the start of the season by saying "My name is Jose Jimenez.'

By midseason, the yoks came by the time he got to "my name —".

Dana, a Hungarian from Quincy Mass., got the idea for Jose in Puerto Rico, not Mexico.

"I met a nice chap down there who told me he was the Dutch representative. I asked: 'Are you a consul general for the Netherlands?'

"'No,' he answered. 'I am the Dutch representative.' I kept pressing him about the Netherlands. Finally, he threw up his arms.

"'I am the Dutch representative. You know, Dutch, Chrysler and Plymouth.'" matter of FACT

"Gardy-loo," the housewife called, and if you didn't step lively you got a bucket of dirty water in your face. Housewives of 18th century Edinburgh had no sinks so they threw their wash water out the window into the street. Their colorful warning cry originally was a French phrase, gare l'eau (watch out for the water), later corrupted to gare de l'eau—shortened by the thrifty Scotch to "gardy-loo."

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

At Peace With World

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The driver was friendly and talkative as we left LaGuardia Field heading toward Manhattan. Threading his way through the traffic he said:

"It's a good day after all."

"It certainly is," I replied, "Didn't it start well for you?"

"Oh," he said, "my old lady tried to argue with me this morning, and I said to her, 'woman don't fight with me before I go out to drive.' It's the worst thing you can do—fight with someone before you drive. You get things all bottled up inside you and, before you know it, you have an accident."

I was relieved to know that he was at peace with the world. I agreed completely.

Since then I've been wondering how many accidents are caused by those who may not be driving at all.

A boy and his dad have a fight at home. The boy goes out, slams the door, gets into his car and then—there's a crash.

Alcohol and gasoline don't mix; neither do gasoline and emotional upsets.

My cab driver and I agreed that it would be better to stop in at an open church to achieve some peace before driving, before a personal quarrel becomes a common tragedy.

Suddenly I was aware of the numbers of times when personal incidents become community involvements.

I wanted to ask the pilot of the plane how they'd gotten on with their families that morning.

I wondered about the driver of that tremendous tractor-trailer who wheeled from the highway into our street, speculating on his sense of emotional calm.

Being a typical American, I've been tempted to organize a "Peace at Breakfast Society," which enables everyone to start his day with a song in his heart. Character memberships would be limited to those who depart from their homes, leaving the members of the family with the assurance of love, and who go about their daily work with an awareness of God's presence.

In a time when we are concerned lest an emotional outburst of a dictator shall start a war, it is as important that those of us whose responsibilities are involved in the management of our automobiles, the administration of our offices, or the mental equlibirium of our households develop a mature ability to control ourselves.

Translated into every day's existence, it is the ancient truth that we ought to handle rather than nurse and expose rather than bury the moods and feelings which can destroy our interpersonal relationships or our physical well-being.

A cab driver and I unite to urge you to pray first:

"Create in me a clean heart, O God, and renew a right spirit within me, that Thy will may be done this day, even through me."

Keeping Up With Joneses Is Frustrating and Futile

Nowadays you can't even begin to keep up with the Joneses by buying one of something. In order to keep up, you've gotta have two.

Just when the young Smiths are about to make the last payment on their new car the Joneses buy a second car and the Smiths can't rest easy until they are a two-car family, too.

Even buying a new home doesn't mean the Smiths can feel they have arrived. The Joneses already have a cottage on the lake. One home just isn't enough to be impressive any more. You've gotta have two.

Got a TV set in the playroom (which, by the way, is your second living room, of course)? Well, so has everybody else. But the Joneses have two. The second one in the bedroom, or in junior's room so that he can get his programs without conflict with his parents' choices.

Dreaming of going to Europe? Well, your first trip isn't going to impress anybody.

"You'll enjoy your second trip even more than your first," the Joneses will tell you. The Joneses, of course, have already made their second trip.

Are you happy with one vacation a year—two weeks each summer? Well, you won't be long. Not with the Joneses talking about their winter cruise.

And so it goes. Just as you get one of something paid for, it's fashionable to have at least two. Just one means you only have the necessities. You need two to put yourself in the class of those who live in luxury.

What happens when the Smiths finally get two of everything, just like the Joneses—including two telephone lines, so the teenagers can have their own line and don't have to share it with the adults in the family?

Well, by that time the Joneses start on threes—beginning with their third car, or their third bathroom, or their third TV set.

There's just no such thing as keeping up with the Joneses any more. They don't know when to quit.

GOP Plank Makers Hear I.A.A. President

CHICAGO— Republican party platform builders last week heard William J. Kuhfuss report Farm Bureau's views on fiscal policies.

Kuhfuss, president of the Illinois Agricultural association, was representing the American Farm Bureau Federation, in his statement that "we are concerned over the trend toward increased centralization of power in the federal government."

Kuhfuss pointed out that farmers are caught in a cost-price squeeze because excessive production-stimulated government programs, has depressed farm prices while inflation, stimulated by deficit spending and the special privileges permitted labor unions, has been boosting farm costs."

He attacked inflation, but warned against deflation and called for a halt in government spending programs which are inflationary—even when balanced by high taxes.

"We cannot maintain continued economic growth and private control of the economy if a continually increasing proportion of the nation income is withdrawn through taxes."

He asked that the Republicans consider a position which would promote a relatively stable general price level through policies governing the supply of money and credit.

He also stated that cooperatives should pay their fair and proper taxes. The earnings of cooperatives should either be taxed in the hands of the cooperative or in the hands of the patron, but should not be taxed in both instances.

Develop Soybean Types Resistant To Rot Disease

Resistance is being built into several of the more important varieties for Illinois, according to R. L. Bernard, USDA plant breeder at the University of Illinois, who was one of the first in the state to work on the problem. He points out, however, that it will probably be several years before farmers can buy the new seed.

Bernard has worked closely with U. of I plant pathologists in studying the nature of resistance and its characteristics of inheritance. The fungus disease attacks soybeans in poorly drained, compact soils and is apt to be widespread in wet years, like this one, when many soils are water-logged.

Blackhawk is the soybean variety Bernard uses as the source of disease resistance. While Blackhawk itself is no longer recommended for Illinois, the anti-Phytophthora characteristics of its germ plasm are being incorporated into the newer varieties. Some of the new seed will be produced this summer and used in regional performance test.

Synthetic Lysine As Cattle Feed Much Overrated

A University of Illinois livestock specialist warns cattle feeders that adding synthetic lysine to rations does not improve the performance of all rations.

G. R. Carlisle notes that farm magazines recently reported that lysine boosts the performance of cattle fed certain rations. For example, lysine added to rations containing a high percentage of urea brings a favorable response.

Lysine does not, however, improve the performance of cattle fed rations containing natural sources of protein, such as linseed and soybean meal.

Two groups of cattle received similar rations except for the source of protein supplement. One group received a natural source containing no urea. The second received a supplement with 3.7 to 18.5 percent urea.

Cattle in the first group outgained the second group. And they utilized their feed much more efficiently.

Research workers next added lysine to the rations of both groups. Then each group gained about the same. Cattle in the first group, however, still used fewer pounds of feed for each pound of gain.

The Finnish people are the world's leading milk drinkers. They consume fluid milk and cream at the annual rate of about 310 quarts per capita. The U. S. is the eighth ranking nation in terms of milk drinking.

There may not be as much cream in the coffee as there used to be. But Americans fill this gap by using increased amounts of milk-cream mixtures, such as half and half. Usage of cream is only about two-thirds what it was during the late 1930's and during World War II.

High As Elephant's Eye?

University of Illinois radio man Benny Coplan points to the six-foot mark on one of the giant corn stalks towering over an experimental plot on the U. of I. dairy research farm. The tiny two-acre plot is supporting more than 160,000 plants per acre. The corn was more than eight feet tall by July 13 when this picture was taken.

URBANA—A two-acre plot of corn on the University of Illinois dairy farm is giving researchers more trouble than a two-acre plot should.

It began last spring when U. of I. dairy scientist drilled five bushels of seed into the two-acre plot. The plan was to test corn's worth as a quick-growing emergency forage and to see what effect such thick planting would have on the corn's feeding value.

On May 4 the scientist drilled the corn in rows only seven inches apart and waited to see what would happen as the little plot valiantly set out to push up more than 160,000 plants per acre.

A Repeated Pattern

What did happen? Well, first it rained—and the corn grew. Then it rained again— and the corn grew some more. In fact, it kept right on raining. And the corn kept right on growing.

When researchers checked it on on July 13, the plants were more than eight feet tall—and still growing.

The scientist give an abundant supply of rain a lot of the credit for the corn's fantastic growth. But they have another explanation we like better.

They say it's highly possible that the plants are so close together that they're competing with each other for sunlight. Reacting to some ancient law of survivial, each stalk is doing its best to outreach its neighbor to keep from being shaded out.

50 Tons Per Acre?

Researchers doubt that the corn can ever do much boasting in the ear department. But it's going to be hard to beat for tons of forage produced. Latest estimates say the plot is likely to turn out more than 50 tons per acre.

The biggest problem lies in harvesting the jungle of green matter that's beginning to resemble the lushest part of the tropics.

What's the corn think of all this? Well, our guess is that it's too busy growing to care either way.

Thrifty Pigs End Up On The Profit Side

Illinois record-keeping hog farmers averaged only $114 earnings for every $100 of feed used in 1959. But the top one-fifth of these farms earned $38 more for every $100 of feed fed than the low one-fifth.

From a farm business analysis report issued this week at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, agricultural economists A. G. Mueller and D. F. Wilken point out several key differences in the high and low-earning hog farms.

The high-earning farms farrowed about 55 litters compared with 46 on the low-earning farms. The top farms weaned about one more pig per litter. After weaning, he low farms lost seven more pigs than the top farms.

Feed costs played a major part in producing higher earningsc. The top farms produced their hogs for $9.13 a hundred pounds, while feed costs on the low-return farms averaged $11.61. The lower fed costs were due to 60 pounds less grain and 20 pounds less commercial feed required for each 100 pounds of pork produced.

Illinois Farmers Outlook Letter

1960 CORN CROP MAY BE LESS THAN NEEDS

The 1960 corn crop seems likely to fall well short of the record crop of 1959. Production for this year is officially forecast at 4,079 million bushels, a reduction of 278 million bushels, or 7 per cent below last year, though 7 per cent over 1958. But the 1958 crop was produced under acreage restrictions, while those of 1959 and 1960 were not restricted.

Of course, the 1960 corn crop is not yet in the crib, and it may be larger or smaller than the July forecast. But, as the forecast stands, it is about equal to the amount of corn that is being used in this country and exported this year.

The land planted to corn this year is estimated at 83,680,000 acres, which is 1 per cent less than last year. The average yield is forecast at 48.7 bushels per acre, 2.8 bushels less than last year.

Estimate Too High?

Many farmers in Illinois and Iowa think that average yields will be cut much more than 2.8 bushels an acre. Some farmers in central, western and northern Illinois and in southeastern Iowa might be happy to settle for half a crop.

A short corn crop this year would not have much price-lifting influence because of the large carryover of old corn. The carryover next Oct. 1 may be near 1,900 million bushels, or one-fourth more than last fall. This increased carryover may more than offset the cut in production this year. If so, the corn supply for next year would be larger than it is this year.

The CCC will be selling some corn in the next marketing year, though perhaps mainly corn that is in poor condition. Such sales plus the 1960 crop may still be more than will be required for domestic uses and for exports. This would tend to hold prices near the support level.

It is an important fact that since last fall corn prices have been very nearly at world export values. From last Oct. 1 through June 30, about 160 million bushels of corn was sold to foreign countries. These sales were made with only very small export subsidies. This is a good indication of what prices might be without price supports.

More Soybeans Planted

Farmers have planted 24,430,000 acres of soybeans this year, 5 per cent more than in 1959. No official estimate of yields will be made until August. But growing conditions seem to be less favorable than last year. Acre yields may fall enough to offset most of the increase in acreage planted. Production this year could be no more than the 538 million bushels harvested last year.

The carryover of old beans will be much smaller than last year, perhaps half as much as the 62 million bushels carried over last fall.

The soybean market now accurately reflects international values. From last Oct. 1 through June 30, some 112 million bushels of soybeans were purchased by foreign buyers. These deals were made entirely without export subsidies.

Crockett Best Yielder In Oakes Wheat Plots

Dale Hewitt, Scott county farm adviser, has announced the production results of the 17 winter wheat varieties grown last season by Royal Oakes of Bluffs, cooperating with the U. I. College of Agriculture and the U.S.D.A.

The plots were seeded last Oct. 16 at the rate of 70 pounds per acre. Weed growth contributed in some cases to high moisture content. The plots were harvested under favorable conditions on July 16. All varieties were standing extremely well until the heavy rain and wind storm of June 28, which resulted in severe lodging and a delay in harvesting.

Crockett was the top producer, with 52.8 bushels per acre, followed by two old reliables: Pawnee with 48.5 and Wichita with 47.4.

The poorest yielder of the lot was Taylor 16 with 32.6 bushels, testing only 52 pounds and holding 15.5% moisture. This variety also showed considerable winter kill.

The driest of the 17 varieties was an Illinois experimental variety, 53-818, which carried 13.4% moisture. It was followed by Crockett and Omaha.

Due to the wet season not a single variety produced 60 pound wheat. The best was LaPorte, followed by Crockett and Wichita.

Variety	Yield Per A.	Test Wt.	Moisture
Crockett	52.8	59	13.78
Pawnee	48.5	58	13.90
Wichita	47.4	59	14.14

This Week.. at Dixon Springs

Les Broom, former Pulaski-Alexander farm adviser, took on new and broader duties July 1 as area resources development adviser for an eight-county area in southern Illinois. Les' responsibility will include Pulaski, Alexander, Massac, Pope, Hardin, Johnson, Union and Jackson counties. His headquarters are at the University of Illinois Dixon Springs Experiment Station.

This week and for the next few weeks Les is attending a school on rural development at the University of Missouri. Starting about mid-August, he will be on the job of advising on the development of southern Illinois resources.

Horticulture

With a short breather following the strawberry harvest, Bill Courter, horticulture expert, and Raymond Enyart have invaded the summer squash, cucumber, sweet corn, and tomato patches. In a single year these fellows have made a spectacular and ambitious showing with well-tended small fruit and vegetable plots on what we call the Lewis Wells tract. Ray make's a weed's life hazardous and short. He has constant assistance from a boy from the Illinois Youth Commission boy's camp. He's making quite a gardener of this boy.

Ditching And Leveling

Many visitors to the Station get the impression that we have only upland soils. This is not so. Nearly 400 acres of land lie in the bottoms along three meandering creeks that flow through Station land. These bottoms are subject to flash flooding. This in itself is aggravating, but not nearly so troublesome as the low swales and pot holes that do not drain as the water recedes.

Open ditches help, but still fail to drain many low spots. For the past several years, we have been improving a new bottomland field each summer. The point of attack this summer is the Barger bottom on Bay Creek, below Robbs. A bulldozer, dirt scoop, land leveler and grader are now ditching, moving soil from high to low spots, leveling and grading for drainage to several shallow, croppable and crossable ditches.

It has been estimated that these drainage jobs cost $35 to $40 an acre. But the cost may be recovered in higher yields over a four- to six-year period. Drained bottoms may possibly grow perennial pasture and hay crops as well as the annual row crops. Well drained and leveled creek bottom areas today on the Station are growing excellent stands of alfalfa.

A Wise Farmer Does More Than Just "Talk" About the Weather

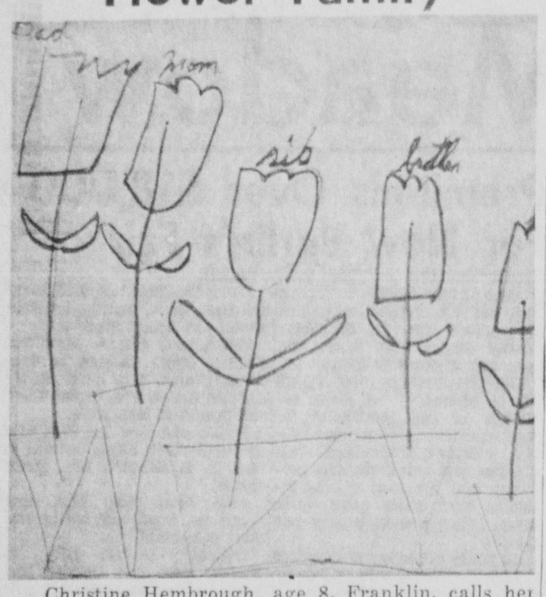

Ed Garlich, Elliott State Bank's Farm Manager, and Holman Robbins, tenant, inspect hail damage on the farm owned by Mrs. Frances Giberson of Colorado Springs, Colorado. This is one of the many progressive farms managed by the bank. Planning for a big yield has included an insurance "umbrella" to protect against loss from hail or other major weather damage.

Everybody talks about the weather . . . a smart farmer DOES something about it as well. Today, planning a crop includes planning a practical insurance program. After many years of experience as Morgan County Farm Adviser, Ed Garlich knows that crops can't always be protected against the weather, but income can. A sound crop insurance program is an important part of every farming operation entrusted to the Farm Management department of Elliott State Bank. This means a more secure income for the owner, and the people of the Jacksonville area. It is one of the many reasons more and more people entrust the management of their farms to Elliott State Bank when they are unable to play an active role. They know their income will benefit from farming know-how, as well as financial know-how . . . and that the farmer's partner in progress is . . .

Rockets And Space—

Alone In Outer Space

By Walter B. Hendrickson Jr.

From these studies they can eliminate the men who can't stand being alone in space. The tests find that most men are psychiatrically-adjusted for space travel.

The problems are the same for selecting a mentally fit astronaut as those for selecting an airplane pilot, only worse. The main problem is how quickly an individual can adapt to new situations and how fast he can learn to perform a lot of tasks reliably.

These standards are the same for selecting pilots for planes. The duties of an Astronaut, naturally, will be at least a little bit different from those of a pilot, even of the most advanced jet.

Training For Space

Another of the major problems facing the psychologist is training the astronaut. Controlling a spaceship demands that the astronaut carry out his duties almost perfectly under a wide variety of conditions. In many cases, especially in the early days of space flight, training on the job will be impossible. So the astronauts will have to be trained to peak efficiency under simulated conditions.

At present research into this problem is concentrated into three major areas: 1 finding how closely training equipment must simulate actual conditions in order to train an astronaut properly; 2, investigate the most effective performance feed back; 3,the best sample problems to be fed into the simulator to train the astronaut to cope with the widest variety of situations in actual operation.

Training research at WADC has been expanded with the transfer of the Air Force Personnel Training Research Center to Wright-Paterson AFB. In this area research also is going on in three divisions: 1, trainers to train the astronaut in his part in the crew's work; 2, squadron maintenance training; 3, training people to operate the simulators.

In each of these three areas WADC must set up two factors: how best to train the men selected for this work, and how to best determine the expertness of these training methods. These two factors will be based on four separate conditions: 1, entire crew performance; 2, performance in spite of stress, especially emotional stress; 3, most reliable performance; 4, performance at the limits of man's capabilities, particularly to cope with a lot of duties and or a wide range of them.

The actual training of astronauts will, at least at first, run design and development of the space ship. The training will be done in simulators. The Project Mercury Astronauts were trained like this.

What Are All Those Airplane Gadgets For?

By Joseph A. Smith

Part 2: Measuring Speed

Last week we told you what some of those dials and levers are for on a plane. Here are some more controls.

The speed or revolutions per minute of the pilot's engine is measured with a Tachometer. A good example of this might be an old hand powered wash machine such as your grandparents might have had.

Two swinging weights were fastened to a handle indirectly and the motion of them turned the wash machine paddles inside the washer proper. Now the faster one pushed and pulled the handle the faster the weights (located at the bottom of the paddle shaft) spun around in a circle and the farther outward they swung. The faster the weights turned the faster the paddles turned and washed the clothes.

Similarly, two weights are used in a tachometer which swings out very little at low R.P.M.s, but swing out further and further as R.P.M. increases. These swinging weights move a gear and lever system which in turn move an indicator over a dial scale.

Thus the pilot knows approximately how fast his engine is turning over. Since every engine has an upper limit at which it can be safely operated without damaging it of possibly literally flying apart, he must know how fast his engine is turning over.

Limit To Safe Speed

Also, any aircraft can fly only so fast, and any aircraft can be flown safely only so fast. Thus the pilot must have some method of knowing just how fast he is going. Moreover, his speed forward is a factor in navigation computations.

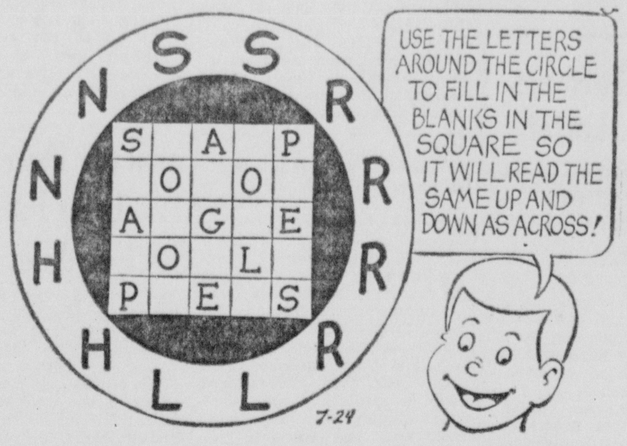

One simple method of air speed indication gear consists of a diaphragm of metal enclosed in a relatively air-tight case. A "pilot-static" tube located on the aircraft wing intercepts a very small amount of air as the craft moves forward, travels through the tube into the case, pushes the metal diaphragh out a bit. This, in turn, operates a lever and dial pointer.

The greater the forward speed, the greater the pressure applied to the diaphragm, and the more the dial pointer is moved thus indicating increased forward speed. A second small tube located on the wing of the craft along side the "pilot-static" tube contains a number of small air holes which equalize air pressure within the case.

These are but three examples of the usual aircraft instrument.

LETS GO BIRDING—

Animals Return To Old Homes

By David Mudgett

The woodsy area at the west end of Jacksonville was an ideal home for wild creatures until the starlings crowded them out. Then came the hawks t rout the starlings. Now, however, crows are chasing a hawk—who will win?

You cannot say a hawk flies. It just spreads its wings and floats up or down or glides off.

This hawk rose just above the trees, and the two crows began to divebomb it. Flapping their wings they would get above the slow-gliding hawk and come down on it, veering aside at the last minute.

Then we noticed that his sweeps were gradually taking him away from the woods. Once clear of the wooded area, the hawk banked, turned and shot straight at the crows with incredible speed, although he had not once flapped his wings.

The crows fled in panic and were soon seen flying far away. Then the hawk dropped gently down between the trees and was lost to sight.

A quick glance toward the nest revealed the other hawk perched on the edge of it with her (presuming it was the female) head bobbing up and down into the nest. Later we saw her perched on a branch above the nest, nearly hidden by the speckling of new foliage on the tree. An hour later she was back on the edge of the nest feeding her young again.

Life Returns

Meanwhile life has returned to the area. The song birds are back again, all but the catbirds.

The brown thrasher is building in the catbird's favorite juniper. The cardinal, missing its tangled rose bush (which we had to cut down) is flying around hunting for a new site. The mourning dove is building nest after nest to find a good place by trial and error.

The rabbits that feasted on tree bark all winter have gone back to their grass and clover patches. The squirrels are back stealing nuts, and the robins have taken over the bird bath again.

Vacation Time Fun

By Mary Pence Claywell

Part 10: Old-Time School

Tommy is visiting his Grandparents on the farm during school vacation. As he and Gramp take a walk his Grandfather points out places that remind him of the days when he was Tommy's age.

The weeds were so high Tommy could scarcely see the favorite spots Gramp pointed out, but the two little outbuildings and the old, ewo little outbuildings and the old, tumbling coal shed and jump platform were easily visible. All of them "joined hands," as Tommy said, and then formed a neat little path that led to the schoolhouse door.

Grandpa and Tommy entered the half-opened door and stood for a few minutes looking around, while Gramp pointed out the end of an old desk that peeped from a mound of hay in the corner. In the front of the room, the blackboard still held a dusty eraser in its trench, but there wasn't any chalk, so Tommy couldn't try it out.

Naughty Boy

"I needed a trimming for that," he said aloud, but Tommy failed to see any signs of Grandpa's being sorry. Actually, he thought he saw mischevious look when Gramp went on to say, "Well, I guess Old Man Time will never put Cupid out of business, Son."

Did They Learn Much?

"I wonder, Grandpa, how folks managed with the old schools," said Tommy. "I guess we learn a lot more today. Just what did you study fifty or sixty years ago, Gramp?"

"Well," answered Gramp, "a lot more than the 'three R's you hear so much about, Tommy. There were reading, arithmetic, and writing of course; but there was a lot more too.

"We studied physiology, geography, civics, grammar, history, and spelling, and we learned to draw. Besides these daily classes, we had the big agricultural chart that stood in the front of the room, and plenty of wall maps.

"Every spring, we went on a field trip, the whole gang and the teacher. On these 'foot' trips, we studied erosion, and plants and birds and streams. We all, that is the older ones, carried a note book and wrote little reminders for we knew later we would have to write about what we had seen."

"Oh, we learned quite a bit, even in those days, Tommy, and we had to memorize a great many things in the way of rules for we didn't have too many ready-made tables to go by. Almost any upper grade pupil could figure the lumber to build a house, how much a crib held, and the volume of a cistern. So we'll have to let 'time' tell the what we have lost, and how much we have gained in closing the old-time school. Boys like you, Tommy, will write the pages of history for the next age. Make it good, Son," said Grandpa as he patted young Tommy's head.

Good Changes

"Anyway," said Gramp in a bright tone," we wouldn't want some things back," and he pointed to the tumbling little outbuildings, and later to the lunch pail shelf in the rear of the building.

He told Tommy how the contents froze hard in the cold winter, and the big rusty stove (that still stood in its place) baked young backs . . . while cold toes ached as the children munched the frozen lunch.

FACE PROVES VALUABLE

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)— If the Pittsburgh Pirates win the National League pennant their most valuable man could be relief pitcher Elroy Face. When the season reached the half-way mark, Face had appeared in 37 of Pittsburgh's first 77 games.

The presidential oath of office was administered to Calvin Coolidge in 1923 by his father, John Coolidge, a justice of the peace.

You Can Make Your Own Gear

By Joseph A. Smith

Unless you are of the group that possesses finances unlimited, you may find that you may have to "roll your own" gear if you are to keep the cost down to the usual budget for such things. Therefore, it behooves you to know how to properly go about building gear that is both practical and attractive to the eye.

Before you start on any major piece of electronic gear, you should pick up your old friend, the ARRL handbook, and read the chapter entitled "Construction Practices." Here the use and care of the most used tools are quite adequately covered. Also working with a chassis, chassis finishing, and wiring (also soldering) is well covered.

The importance of learning the proper soldering technique can't be over-emphasized. We should not forget that any soldering iron, be it a gun or a regular iron, must be properly tinned before it can be used. Also it must be cleaned every now and then.

Remember to heat the joint first, then apply the solder to the joint not the iron, and allow the solder to melt and run onto the new joint. Take great care to check each joint made as you make it.

Better than 3 out of 4 troubles (or Bugs as the Ham says) found in new gear arise from a loose or cold solder joint!

Know Color Codes

If you should decide to buy any one of the many excellent kits available today (AE Viking, Heath-Kit, Eico, Philmore, etc.), you should be wise to follow this procedure (or one similar to this, at least):

(1) Skim through the introduction and circuit description sections included in most construction manuals so as to have a general idea of what you're working with.

(2) Carefully sort out and check off (against the parts list generally included with all kits) all parts. This will not only acquaint you with all component parts, but will also show whether or not any parts are missing before you start assembly.

(3) Next, carefully glance through the step-by-step assembly instructions so as to get an overall idea of how things go together.

(4) Now commence assembly procedures following one step at a time, carefully completing one at a time, marking it off when completed, and be sure to check each step and solder connections as you go along. This will save a lot of needless headaches later on.

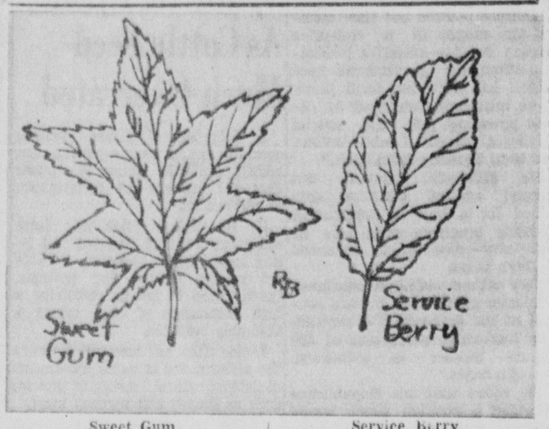

(5) Don't be original; build it exactly like the included pictorial diagrams suggest placing every wire, resistor, capacitor, etc, exactly as suggested. Chances are, if you follow instructions and have exercised reasonable care in construction, the gear should work right from the first time tried.

Bark Makes Perfume

By Rip Barnsdall

Sweet Gum

The sweet gum is a bottom-land tree that is found on many types of soil. It is 80 to 120 feet high.

Its leaves are somewhat star-shaped. The resin taken from the bark is often used in the making of perfumes.

Service Berry

The Service berry is also known as the shadbush.

When the shad fish ascend New England rivers to spawn in the spring, this tree (sometimes also a large shrub) flowers. The flowers open in masses before or as the leaves unfold.

The wood is hard and heavy, but is of little value since the tree is of such a small size.

CROWD OF 500 AT REPUBLICAN FISH FRY

This is a portion of a crowd of 500 persons who attended the annual Republican Fish Fry Friday night at Lakeside Community Park on the shores of Lake Jacksonville.

The audience heard county candidates make brief remarks, followed by major political addresses by Paul Findley, candidate for Congress in the 20th District; Lt. Governor John Chapman, seeking reelection; and Samuel Witwer, candidate for United States Senate. Harris Rowe, candidate for State Representative and chairman of the Republican Central Committte, was master of ceremonies for the speaking program following the meal.

The more than 500 persons present were fed about 400 pounds of fish. Those in attendance brought potato salad and cole slaw.

Rowe introduced officeholders present at the gathering.

The fish fry was in charge of the Young Republican Club of Morgan County in cooperation with the Women's Republican and Republican Control Committee.

The annual Republican picnic will be the next county-wide meeting for families.

New Breed Of Politician Will Dominate American Scene In Coming Campaign

LOS ANGELES (AP) — With this presidential campaign, a new breed of politician dominates the American scene.

Both Sen. John F. Kennedy, the Democratic presidential nominee, and Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who will be the Republican choice, came into politics after World War II.

Both keep a thoughtful eye on that newfangled political demon: The public opinion poll.

Both are such careful planners that long before the nominating conventions they already were devising battle plans for the fall campaign.

Both have traveled abroad and can speak first hand of other nations' problems.

Both speak fluently and readily on almost any issue, although often in generalities.

Both show an uncanny ability to take what appears to be a liability, and by rushing forward to meet it turn it into an asset.

When confronted with stories of political contributions in 1952, Nixon make his famous—or infamous, from a Democratic viewpoint—speech in which, among other things, he stoutly refused to refund the family cocker, Checkers.

Kennedy's Catholicism is considered a liability, but in Protestant West Virginia he brought the religious issue into the open and won the presidential primary from Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, 236,510 to 152,187.

Aside from their political beliefs, possibly the greatest difference between the two is in the way they went about getting the nomination.

Kennedy took the long, difficult, expensive route through the presidential primaries. And he won even though he had some of the most revered names in the Democratic party against him: Harry S. Truman, Lyndon B. Johnson, Sam Rayburn, Adlai E. Stevenson, Eleanor Roosevelt.

The oldtimers in his party must feel a faint chill when Kennedy, only 43 himself, speaks approvingly of the bright young Democratic congressmen coming along.

"A whole new group," he says, "is moving into power in the Democratic party in the 1960s."

And while the smoke-filled room is still there, politics now includes coffee hours, women volunteers phoning every voter in the state, amateurs dashing madly about in a way that would have shocked Kennedy's politically minded forebears back home in Massachusetts.

I have traveled with both Nixon and Kennedy, listened to both of them speak formally and informally, and despite the claims of their backers this remains true:

You know the direction each says he wants to go, but each remains vague on precisely how he aims to get there.

But it's early yet. As we move along, our gladiators will be forced to step up the pace.

In Hollywood

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — If you live in a town with a screwy enough name, you may get it in the title of a movie.

Burl Ives, who admits to being somewhat of a screwball himself, is making and directing a movie tentatively called "The Pied Piper of ?"

"I don't want to call it 'The Pied Piper of Hamelin' because it is strictly an American version of the old legend," says the big daddy of the folk singers. "I want a name that is unusual and strictly American.

"We're already considering Muses Botton, Fla., Bird-in-Hand, Pa., None Such, Va., Sweet Betsy, Idaho, Fifty-Six, Ark., and Turnagain River, Alaska."

The Academy - award winning actor's role in the picture is based on the medieval German legend that Robert Browning turned into an immortal English ballad. The picture will give Ives full scope as an American troubador. He'll play a roving grass roots minstrel who, hired by the people of the countryside to free them from the menace of a mysterious beast, makes good on the job but doesn't get paid.

But he needs a town to lead them out of. Send entries to Ives, care of Allied Artists Studio, Hollywood.

Actress Stella Stevens claims she was born in the town of Hot Coffee, Miss., about six cups south of Memphis.

The Man From Boston (5)

By Walter Coyne and Ralph Lane

Kennedy met Jacqueline Lee Bouvier, then 22, at a Washington, D.C., party in the spring of 1952. A few months after he entered the Senate, they became engaged. Jackie and Jack were married in Newport, R.I., her home, on Sept. 12, 1953.

In October, 1954, Kennedy decided to undergo a risky operation on his war-injured spine to alleviate the grinding pain that had driven him to use crutches constantly. He recuperated through most of 1955, during which time he wrote "Profiles in Courage."

Kennedy's dramatic bid for the vice presidential nomination at the 1956 Democratic Convention in Chicago ended in failure when he lost to Sen. Estes Kefauver by a whisker. Though he took the defeat hard, he immediately urged support for the chosen ticket.

Rockefeller Mystery Provides Excitement For GOP Convention

By PETER EDSON
Newspaper Enterprise
Washington Correspondent

CHICAGO —(NEA)— Only excitement in the Republican National Convention preliminaries centers around New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller. Nobody knows for sure what he's up to, including, perhaps, even the good Governor himself.

If he thinks he is going to be drafted for the presidency, veteran Republican leaders say that he doesn't have a chance.

If these same Republican leaders think they are going to draft Rockefeller for the vice presidency, he says they don't have a chance.

If he thinks he is going to influence the Republicans into writing a 1960 platform that is far more progressive than they would normally adopt, the Governor is going at it most peculiarly.

The statement he read to the GOP Platform Committee here was a good speech. But it didn't spell out any specific planks that they could adopt as presented. And on the question of how many of his views differed from Vice President Nixon's, he mentioned two.

One is to spend three and a half billion dollars more on national defense. The other is to change the plan approved by Nixon for financing medical care for the aged. Earlier, the Governor had criticized the Vice President's views on letting national economic growth take care of itself.

So if Gov. Rockefeller is running against Vice President Nixon for the presidential nomination, he has thus far failed to identify any large areas of dispute over policies which would make one candidate preferable to the other.

This would seem to leave the only distinction between them a matter of personality and which one has more appeal to the voters.

Gov. Rockefeller refused to be trapped into answering a question on whether he thinks Vice President Nixon can defeat Senator John F. Kennedy for the presidency, if Nixon is nominated. Gov. Rockefeller also refused to predict that he can defeat Kennedy if he is the GOP nominee.

If Gov. Rockefeller thinks that Vice President Nixon will be defeated by Senator Kennedy this November and that this will leave the coasts clear for the Governor to become head of the GOP and its logical presidential candidate in 1964, he may be making serious miscalculations.

For if Senator Kennedy is elected President this year, it is a good political gamble that he will be reelected for a second term in 1964. The same bet can be made on Vice President Nixon if he wins this year.

In either event, this would mean that Gov. Rockefeller would have to wait until 1968—when he will be 61 years old—to become a real challenger for the presidential nomination.

What an eight year delay would involve for Gov. Rockefeller is that he would have to remain in the public eye as New York's chief executive or as a Senator or cabinet officer. For there is nothing that kills a politician's career more than to be off a government payroll.

Rockefeller could run for a second term as governor in 1962 and probably win. But if he has his eye on the White House for 1964, it would be harder for him to give up the governorship in 1963 and then start running as a private citizen for the 1964 presidential nomination.

Also, if Rockefeller isn't drafted for the presidential nomination here, it will be equivalent to a defeat. And as a loser, it will be more difficult for him to get the nomination in either 1964 or 1968.

U.S. Astronauts Will Soon Learn Whether Man Can Orbit Earth And Return Safely

Editor's Note — For many months, both the Soviet Union and the United States have been hustling to send the first man into outer space and bring him back alive. But neither side has yet fired a manned space shot—or if the Soviets have, they are keeping quiet. Why the delay? Here, based on an interview with U.S. astronauts, are some of the answers.

By ROGER GREENE
AP Staff Writer

Any day now, almost any hour, America's astronauts will learn the answer to the No. 1 riddle in the man-in-space race with the Soviet Union.

The question:

Can man, returning to earth after flashing around the world in a rocket-propelled capsule at 17,400 m.p.h., pass through the great heat barrier and survive?

To date neither the United States nor, so far as is known, the Soviets have succeeded in bringing anything — nose cone or passenger size capsule — safely back from orbit.

Without exception, every vehicle shot into orbit has either sailed on for millions of miles in outer space or burned up on re-entering the earth's atmosphere.

On its success or failure depends the next phase in the astronauts' ordeal of waiting to see whether they or the Soviets become victors in man's assault on space.

With the seven astronauts on hand as observers, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) has set the stage for a re-entry test using an 80-foot Atlas booster to send an unmanned Mercury capsule hurtling 1,800 miles down the Atlantic Missile Range from Cape Canaveral.

Although the capsule, in this case, will not go into earth-circling orbit, it will go through normal re-entry conditions, plunging from a height of 100 miles into the so-called "heat barrier" at a speed faster than the velocity of a rifle shot.

What happens when the capsule hits the earth's mantle of dense atmosphere—slowing it down from 17,400 m.p.h. to 700 m.p.h. in a few seconds—is perhaps best described as "like driving through a brick wall."

Lt. Col. John A. (Shorty) Powers, press officer for Project Mercury, said NASA scientists believe they have finally solved the heat problem, based on results of a similar test with an Atlas booster last Sept. 9.

In that test, the Mercury capsule reached a height of 100 miles, went through maximum temperatures of 3,000 degrees fahrenheit in crashing the heat barrier, and was recovered undamaged 1,300 miles down range in the Atlantic.

Despite the terrific heat which built up on the capsule's outer skin, instruments showed the temperature inside the capsule never exceeded 100 degrees.

But the Sept. 9 experiment was not wholly successful. The first-stage booster of the giant Atlas missile failed to disconnect from the Mercury capsule on schedule, with the result that the capsule attained a speed of only 15,000 m.p.h.—about 2,400 m.p.h slower than the speed of re-entry from orbit.

How much difference that extra 2,400 m.p.h will make in heat buildup will be the big question in the forthcoming test.

During the interview, the conversation turned to the Soviet Union's May 15 feat of sending an alleged "dummy astronaut" into orbit aboard a 4½-ton space ship.

"My personal opinion is that it carried a man, not a dummy," Col. Powers said.

Navy Cmdr. Walter M. Schirra Jr., 37: "I definitely think there wasn't a man in it."

Whether remnants of the Soviet craft—which later broke up into nine fragments floating around earth—contain the lifeless body of a Soviet astronaut (the Soviets call them "cosmonauts") is anybody's guess.

Despite Moscow's announcement that no attempt would be made to recover the capsule, Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash), a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, told the Senate on May 19:

There is growing reason to suspect that a man may be sitting in the Soviet spaceship now circling the globe. . . and that the Soviets may very shortly attempt to return this man alive to earth."

But a Moscow radio broadcast on May 15 quoted a top Soviet space scientist, Dr. L. I. Sedov, president of the International Astronautical Federation as saying: "The problem of safe return to earth has not yet been solved."

In any event, the long-range Soviet missile tests in the mid-Pacific early this month, indicate the Soviets may now be trying to beat the United States to the punch in conquering the re-entry obstacle.

A Moscow announcement hinted as much in saying that the nose cone on the initial shot was "adapted for passage through dense layers of the atmosphere."

Col. Powers said that if NASA's forthcoming re-entry test is successful—if the one-ton Mercury capsule is recovered unscathed after piercing the heat barrier—the time-clock will move decisively ahead toward the next phase.

Late this fall, after preliminary tests with monkeys as passengers, one or more of the astronauts will be shot into ballistic flight down the Atlantic range from Cape Canaveral.

Then sometime in 1961, according to present schedule, will come the first attempt to send an astronaut into orbit, three times around the earth in 4½ hours, and recover him alive in the waters off Puerto Rico.

Though eager to beat the Soviets into space, the hard-training U. S. astronauts are resigned to further exhaustive tests, study and travel before the final countdown.

Three of the seven have recently won promotions—their first since being assigned to the elite group more than a year ago.

The Navy promoted wise-cracking Alan B. Shepard Jr., 36, of East Derry, N.H., to full commander and raised Malcolm S. (Scotty) Carpenter, 35, of Boulder, Colo., from lieutenant to lieutenant commander.

All seven are veteran jet pilots, chosen for their skill, nerve and intelligence. Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr., the lone Marine in the group, piled up 149 combat missions in World War II and the Korean War. He has won the Distinguished Flying Cross five times.

"It's a long haul, but their morale is terrific," Powers said.

"Some critics seem to think we're dragging our feet. They say it will be another damaging blow to American prestige if the Russians send a man into space before we do.

"They forget that the Russians hide their mistakes. We don't."

Here is a hand from my good friend Harrison Smith of Wilkes-Barre, Penn. It has nothing to do with two bids but shows a most unusual and successful false-card. I will let Harrison tell about the hand in his own words.

"I don't suppose you will approve of the bidding." (No, I don't.) "Nevertheless, West was playing four spades and South won his partner's queen of diamonds lead with the ace." (For convenience I am letting West play a hand.)

"Without a quiver of an eyelid West dropped the king of diamonds under the ace. South had no reason to shift, but he was so taken aback by the surprise of that king play that he led a trump. North took his king and saw nothing better to do than lead the ace and his last trump.

"From then on the slaughter was terrific. West finessed dummy's jack of clubs. Cashed the three high hearts; returned to his hand with the ace of clubs and played out his last two trumps. North was thoroughly and completely squeezed. He could not keep a heart and protect his queen of clubs at one and the same time.

"South had one question when the hand was over. He turned to West and asked: 'Didn't you pull the wrong card'

CARD Sense

Q—The bidding has been:

South	West	North	East
2 ♥	Pass	3 ♥	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♣	Pass
4 N.T.	Pass	5 ♥	Pass

You, South, hold:
♠ A 4 ♥ A K Q J 7 6 5 ♦ K Q 6 ♣ 3
What do you do?

A—Bid five no-trump. If your partner can show a king you have 13 tricks. Otherwise, you bid six hearts only.

TODAY'S QUESTION

♠ A 2 ♥ K Q 9 ♦ K J 7 6 ♣ A Q 8 4
What do you bid?

FINALISTS AT SCOTT 4-H SHOW

GeorgAnn Lashmett was chosen to give the home economics demonstration at the state fair next month when 118 4-H girls from Scott county held their annual Achievement Day program at Manchester Thursday.

Shown in the photo, from left, are Miss Lashmett; Connie Watt and Marilyn Jo Smith, also of the Winchester Neighborhood Girls club, who will attend home economics classes at the fair; Vicky Lawson of the Neighborhood Girls and Carol Wisdom of the Winchester Workers, who were named alternates.

Two dresses that struck the eyes of the judges as being exceptionally well-constructed were chosen to be entered in the junior show at Springfield. They were made by Jean Ann Norman and Kay Williams, both of the Winchester Workers 4-H club. With them is Mrs. Olin Clark, 4-H club leader for the past 23 years and whose Winchester Neighborhood Girls club won the lion's share of the major awards at Thursday's show.

Ryan Tries To Answer Some Questions Americans Are Asking About Cuba, Castro

By WILLIAM L. Ryan
Associated Press News Analyst

A lush, pretty little island of six million population has become one of the most grievous headaches for U. S. policy makers.

U. S. citizens long had regarded their Cuban neighbors as cordial friends. What happened to that relationship? Where is Cuba headed?

Here, briefly, are some of the outstanding questions which seem to be on American minds today with answers based on the best information available.

Q. What stakes does the United States have in Cuba?

A. Far more is at stake than private American investments. The developing situation threatens the U. S. position in the hemisphere, future cooperation with Latin America, prospects for orderly transition to more flourishing economies—in the long run perhaps even the prestige and world leadership-position of the United States.

Q. Cuba is just a little nation, how can it threaten all that?

A. Latin America has a strong undercurrent of anti-Yankeeism. Prime Minister Fidel Castro has abused and humiliated the Yankee colossus of the north. The support he has generated among Latin-American masses, exploited by extreme left, makes Latin Governments wary of taking any public position against him, even though he has opened the door to Soviet penetration of the Western Hemisphere.

Q. Why should there be such a significant amount of anti-Yankeeism in Latin America for Castro to exploit?

A. It has been building up for generations. Latin America was poor and backward while the United States was rich and powerful. The United States often interfered in the past in Latin-American governments' affairs. U. S. business interests dominated the Latin-American economic scene. For expediency's sake, U.S. governments often backed whatever regimes were able to grab power, sometimes identifying the United States with dictatorships.

Q. Is Castro taking advantage of all these things?

A. His agents are busy all over Latin America. He has set up an extensive hemisphere press service to spread propaganda. In their contacts with other Latin-American countries, Castro and his subordinates seize every opportunity to fan anti-Yankee, pro-Castro sentiment.

Q. The big U.S. naval base on the island at Guantanamo Bay is a point of possible shooting conflict. How much does the United States need the base?

A. In terms of nuclear warfare, the base probably has little long-range strategic value for wartime. But military officials say it's important as logistic support for the Atlantic Fleet, as a year-round training base, and as protection for the Panama Canal.

Q. Does all this mean that world war might break out because of Cuba and its Western Hemisphere activity?

A. That would presuppose a long-odds Moscow gamble. The Soviets at this time do not seem to intend any attempt to make Cuba an outright satellite.

Q. What do the Soviets want in Cuba, then?

A. They appear to want a base of operations for keeping Latin America in turmoil and for harassing the United States.

Q. Could the Communist party take over Cuba now if it wanted to?

A. The Communist party is a strong, disciplined unit in a politically chaotic country. But it is also subject to direction from abroad and unquestionably would take over physically only on orders.

Q. Does Castro openly help the Communists?

A. He has laid down the doctrine that anti-communism is counter revolutionary. Important men in his regime go down the line for Red doctrines.

Q. Is Castro's economy in dangerous condition?

A. Unemployment has been growing. The country is running out of foreign exchange. Prices are rising.

Q. How much popular support has Castro in Cuba?

A. It has been diminishing but still seems strong among the masses.

Q. Is the Roman Catholic Church a real threat, now that he attacks its priests?

A. Until recently the church has taken no strong stand. The church has yet to test its strength, but in a real showdown Castro's support likely would suffer additional damage.

Q. Is there opposition inside Cuba?

A. What there is seems disorganized and largely silent.

Besides the burgoo, chicken and fish dinners and sandwiches will be served both noon and evening. There will also be plenty of refreshments, hamburgers and other concessions.

Entertainment during the afternoon and evening will be furnished by Lyn Symons and his five-piece band, Austin Wiley and his Hammond organ and other features.

Cake entries and awards to be given are listed as follows: White angel food, first, gallon Cook's Satin Enamel, second, TV doll; devil's food, first, planter, second, Marvalon's drawer lining; spice, first, two pair hose, second, $1 cash; cocoanut, first, salad mold, second, wall plaques, 1 pair; orange, first, 10 lb. sugar, second, $1 cash.

What Type Person Is Lumumba, The Man Suddenly Swept To Leadership Of Congo?

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—A month ago few Americans had ever heard of Patrice Emergy Lumumba.

Friday night this harried politician, flying toward his first visit to the United States, held in his hands the future of one of the richest yet poorest countries in the world.

He is 35, 6 feet 2, lean and unpredictable. He blows hot one day and cold the next in his efforts to assume leadership over a largely illiterate people ill-prepared for self-government in today's world.

He wears a goatee and his eyes twinkle behind thick lenses. He is fond of embellishing his speech with slow movements of his arms and hands, something like a ballerina.

Lumumba has disclaimed any Communist leanings but he turned first to the Soviet Union when he thought United Nations pressure might not be enough to give him his way. He said this week he would "make a pact even with the devil to get Belgian troops out of the Congo."

Born July 2, 1925 in Kasai Province in the central Congo, he has spent most of his life in Stanleyville. He is a descendant of the former Batetela tribesmen—dispersed through the Congo by the Belgians after a bloody uprising in the 1890s. Lumumba has grown up among tales, told by tribal elders, of atrocities committed by the Belgians.

He was one of the Congolese who negotiated with the Belgians on ending their 80-year control over the country. He became premier by virtue of his leadership of the major coalition in an elected House of Representatives.

His critics contend that his fanning of the flames of hatred after independence day touched off the rape, murder and pillage that brought the Congo to a state of chaos. He could not or would not control the native army, which turned mutinous.

Raymond Beard Appointed To FHA Committee

BEARDSTOWN — Appointment of Raymond Beard as a member of the Farmers Home Administration county committee was announced this week by Grant Kinsey, the agency's county supervisor serving Cass county.

Mr. Beard resides in the Arenzville community. He operates a 204 acre grain and livestock farm, is an active member of the Farm Bureau and a former member of Cass County Soil Conservation Board.

Two other members make up the three member committee which works with the county supervisor to see that the best possible use is made of the agency's farm credit service program consistent with local farmers' needs. The other two members are Ray Cline, R. 3, Virginia, and Russel E. Davidsmeier, R. 2, Virginia. Mr. Davidsmeier will serve as committee chairman during the 1961 fiscal year.

He succeeds Homer J. Fricke whose three year term expired this year.

The committee determines the eligibility of individual applicants for all types of loans. It also reviews borrowers' progress and aids the county supervisor in adapting the agency's loan policies to conditions faced by farmers in this area. Members are selected and appointed so that, so far as possible, different areas or neighborhoods are represented.

The Farmers Home Administration makes annual or intermediate term loans to farmers who need adequate funds to buy equipment and livestock, and longer term loans to build or repair houses and other essential farm buildings, and to purchase or improve land suitable for family-type farm operations.

It also advances credit to farmers or their non-profit associations to establish and carry out approved soil and water conservation practices, and to install and improve irrigation and farmstead water facilities.

COUNTERFEIT GENTLEMAN

Artemus extricated his car and drove leisurely to Scottsdale road; then through crowded Scottsdale village and northward to the Roche residence. He did not want to be inopportunely early, nor did he want to miss any moments of the party.

Already there was the mincing, slender lawyer, Marvin Leeds. There was a feline self-confidence about the man as he advanced toward the fringes of the gathering. His eyes flicked brightly here and there, missing nothing. They lighted upon Artemus, and he raised carefully trimmed brows.

He veered a trifle to pass the Secret Service man and said softly, "Getting up in the world eh?"

"I thought you kept track of me."

"You don't know me," Leeds said, with a tightening of the lips.

"That," Artemus said, his eyes hardening, "breaks my heart."

Was this the surprise guest? It might well be. It was obvious his presence had not been anticipated by Leeds, and he felt that for some reason it was unwelcome.

He was surprised to see Jick advancing toward him, a welcoming smile on her pert face. "Not very enterprising, Mr. Baldwin," she said, and grinned boyishly.

"I'm not a cutting horse," he rejoined.

"A cutting horse," she said, "doesn't wait for the calf to come to him. He adroitly works the calf out of the huddle. Not," she said, "that I'm a calf."

"A lot of people seem to want to put their brand on you," he replied.

"No chance," she said gaily.

"I was surprised," he told her, "to see Marvin Leeds here."

"Never," she answered with a grimace, "be surprised at any guest you find on these premises. I believe Mr. Leeds is looking after some legal business for father."

"Indeed!" Artemus exclaimed.

Her eyes danced as she looked beyond him. "If you think Mr. Leeds is an odd guest, just cast your eye on what's trampling down the grass now!"

* * *

Ambling across the lawn from the parking space like a pair of contented hippopotamuses came Louis and Jason Baffin, keeping step ponderously, teeth like dominoes showing through broad and happy smiles.

"Now where," Jick asked, "did father dig up all that tonnage?"

"I suppose," said Artemus worriedly, "that he has heard of the results of lighting matches in a powder magazine."

"The behemoths of Holy Writ are bearing down upon us," Jick said, "beaming like a pair of Cheshire cats. Do they know you?"

"They're aware of me," Artemus said, and turned as Jason Baffin spoke to him unctuously.

"Ah, Mr. Baldwin!" he exclaimed. "Delighted. My brother and I are delighted."

"Miss Roche," Artemus said solemnly, "may I present the Baffin brothers."

The Baffin brothers waddled away in search of Mr. Roche. Jick looked frowningly into Artemus' eyes. "Wherever," she asked, "did father dredge up those deep-sea monsters?" She drew her shoulders together.

Artemus found himself separated from Jick, and he worked his way through the press, hoping for a word with Mr. Roche.

Mr. Roche was moving toward the refreshment table, and Artemus intercepted him. The professor looked up at him with a sort of contented slyness.

"I hope," he said, "that you are not one of those benighted persons who enjoy cocktail parties."

"Know what a catalyst is? It's a thing that draws other things together, after a manner of speaking. Could be you're a catalyst. Like you say, there's some characters here tonight. I've kind of isolated one phenomenon. There's jest one person here that each 'n' every one of those characters has talked to. It's you."

"With," said Artemus, "one exception."

"You wouldn't exactly, precisely or logically expect Walker Bayside to come fawnin' on you after you smacked him on the button."

* * *

"All I do is provide the puddle for you to fish in." He changed the subject abruptly. "They got some mighty fine colleges up in Canada. I was up there to one of them, bewilderin' the undergraduate mind with a lecture not long ago. Got caught passin' a bogus $10 bill. The authorities let me keep it as a souvenir."

Pomfret Lionel had detected a counterfeit $10 bill in his father's possession. The Canadian authorities had found a bogus note in his possession. One such bill might be an accident; two such bills were an extraordinary coincidence.

"But, sir," Artemus said, "the Canadian authorities would not permit a private citizen of the United States to retain such a counterfeit—even as a souvenir."

"Is that note still in your possession?" Artemus asked.

Mr. Roche's hand sought the pocket of Artemus' jacket stealthily. He grinned impishly at the Secret Service man. "It was up till now," he said. "Now take great paintings, say by Michelangelo or such. An expert could tell who painted them by the handiwork. Eh?"
